Gale Shatters Greek Tanker;
2 Members of Crew Perish

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Thirty-four survivors of the broken Greek tanker Amphialos arrived in Halifax early today aboard a Canadian warship after a dramatic rescue from the stormy North Atlantic.

Two members of the 36-man Greek crew perished after the 15,800-ton tanker split in two under the battering of gale winds and 20-foot waves off the Nova Scotia coast Saturday. Five of the survivors were taken to a hospital on stretchers.

Capt. Stamatis Polemis, the Amphialos' skipper, said he and his men clung for hours to a rail of the stern section until they were picked up Sunday afternoon by the Canadian destroyer escort Athabaskan. A 380-foot bow section of the 630-foot ship floated away and sank. The survivors were wrapped in navy blankets as they left the Canadian warship. Most appeared cheerful but tired. They shook hands with the Canadian sailors and in broken English expressed their gratitude.

Asked to confirm the number of men aboard his ship, Polemis said briskly, "We had 36. Now we have 34."

The rescue followed a chance observation by a Canadian air-force plane during a training mission. The pilot, Lt. Laurie Friesen, spotted an oil slick about 220 miles southeast of Halifax—presumably from the sunken bow.

"A couple of minutes later we saw two ships," Friesen said. "The nearest was a navy ship—Athabaskan—and about eight miles away was another ship. The second vessel looked different from a normal ship."

Cling to Rails

As he swooped down, he made out the stern of a ship sticking out of the water.

"There were men clinging to the rails," Friesen said. "They began waving frantically."

Friesen radioed the Athabaskan. The warship's presence in the area was pure chance. The Canadian navy said no distress signal had been received from the stricken tanker.

The Athabaskan's skipper, Cmdr. Peter R. Hinton of Victoria, said a lookout spotted the floating stern a few minutes after the plane's report. Two lifeboats bobbed in the sea.

Hinton said most of the men in the lifeboats were too weak to climb nets hung over the Athabaskan's side. Canadian sailors scrambled down and aided them aboard.

Hoffa Accused Of Attack on Jury System

Among Worst in Country's History,
Prosecutor Says

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa's chief prosecutor argued today that Hoffa took part in "one of the greatest attacks on the jury system this country has ever known."

James Neal, chief prosecutor at the Teamsters' president's jury-tampering trial, opened final arguments as the trial began its seventh week before U. S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson.

Hoffa and five others are accused of trying to bribe and corrupt the jury that heard Hoffa's 1962 trial in Nashville on a conspiracy charge. That jury never agreed on a verdict.

"It's unthinkable to punish the innocent," Neal told the jury of eight men and four women. "But it is cruelty to the innocent not to punish the guilty. Persons who seek to influence jurors are poisoning the very foundation of justice."

Dies After Boys
Knock Her Down

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Police investigating the death of an 81-year-old widow who was knocked down in an attempted purse snatching, continued their search today for three boys believed to be between 6 and 8 years old.

Mrs. Anna M. Ratz died Saturday night about 12 hours after she was knocked down as she walked past a vacant lot near her home. A medical examiner's report said she died of a heart attack.

The woman's son, John, said that when Mrs. Ratz refused to give up her purse, the three boys fled. Mrs. Ratz continued on her shopping trip but returned home when she began to experience chest pains.

She refused hospitalization, and died about an hour after a second visit by a physician.

Tampering Crime

"Attempts to tamper with juries are infrequently and rarely successful," asserted the young prosecutor from Washington. "Even an effort to tamper with a jury is a crime. If the effort is successful, it only aggravates the crime."

Wilson allotted each side five hours of closing arguments, and the jury—which has been locked up since the trial began Jan. 20—is expected to begin its deliberations by tomorrow night.

Neal devoted much of his argument to Edward G. Partin, a Baton Rouge, La., Teamsters official who testified for six days against Hoffa and others on trial. He was the only prosecution witness to link Hoffa with alleged efforts to fix the Nashville jury.

"They (the defense) tried to blacken Partin with all the rumors, slanderous rumors, by disgruntled members of his local," Neal said. "But these rumors all fell flat."

$100,000 Reward for Dynamiters of Train

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Association of American Railroads today offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of dynamiters who wrecked a Florida East Coast Railway train Feb. 26.

The offer was disclosed in telegrams the association sent to President Johnson and Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida.

Daniel P. Loomis, association president, said the organization's board of directors authorized the reward.

The telegrams praised Johnson for ordering the FBI to investigate the dynamite attacks on the strikebound Florida East Coast line. The Feb. 26 explosion was the fifth in less than three weeks.

Air Searchers Find Wreck Of Plane; 85 Aboard Dead

Alps Crash Dead Being Removed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Helicopters took Austrian rescue teams to an Alpine ravine today to begin the grim job of removing the bodies of 83 victims from the wreckage of a British airliner which crashed Sunday.

It was one of two crashes Sunday and the third major commercial air crash in five days.

A U.S. Air Force search plane spotted the blackened tail of the four-engine Bristol Britannia Sunday between two peaks.

Crashed Into Mountain

Austrian officials said the airliner, trying to land through fog at Innsbruck Airport, slammed into 8,800-foot Mt. Gamslehner Spitz southeast of the resort where the 1964 Winter Olympics were held.

The big Turbo-prop plane, its fuel tanks still nearly half full, apparently struck the mountain at full speed and exploded. Debris and bodies were strewn over a 2,000-yard area in the gully between Gamslehner and Glungezer peaks.

The 75 passengers included 73 Britons bound for a skiing holiday, an Austrian and a Canadian. The airline, International Eagle, said there were 18 married couples aboard and at least five children. The plane carried a crew of eight.

Parts of Bodies in Debris

"It is horrible," said an Alpine rescue service member. "Arms, legs and heads are strewn about in the debris. I don't see how we could ever identify the victims."

Tape-recorded messages between the pilot, 40-year-old Capt. E. Williams, and the Innsbruck Control Tower roused suspicions that the plane's altimeters were defective. Williams gave his altitude as 19,000 feet, which would have been well above the peaks.

Texas Districting Law Ruled Invalid

U. S. Supreme Court Leaves
Way Open for Further Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court affirmed today a decision that Texas statutes establishing the state's 23 congressional districts are unconstitutional.

The high court said its decision was without prejudice to the right of state officials to apply, by April 1, to the U.S. District Court in Houston for "further equitable relief in light of present circumstances."

The circumstances, the Supreme Court said, include "the imminence of the forthcoming election and the operation of the election machinery of Texas—as noted previously by the federal District Court in Houston in an opinion."

Stay Continued

The high tribunal also ordered continued a stay in the case granted by Justice Hugo L. Black on Oct. 23, 1963.

This stay, the court ordered, will continue "pending timely application" for the relief mentioned previously in today's decision and the final disposition of the case by the federal District Court in Houston.

The Houston court, in a 2-1 decision, found the Texas districts invalid, over objections by Gov. John Connally and other Texas state officials. These officials appealed to the Supreme Court asking reversal of the District Court decision.

The high tribunal acted, by coincidence, on Texas' Independence Day. On March 2, 1836, Texas proclaimed freedom from Mexico.

The Supreme Court's unsigned order in the Texas case was followed by a notation that Justice Tom C. Clark, a Texan, joined in today's action. "But upon the grounds stated in his separate opinion" in the Supreme Court's decision two weeks ago in a congressional districting case in Georgia.

The court said in that case that congressional districts must represent the same number of voters, so far as is practicable.

Constellation Hit Peak East of Lake Tahoe After Vanishing in Snowstorm

TAHOE VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Air searchers found the wreckage today of a four-engine plane where it crashed into a Sierra peak, east of Lake Tahoe, killing all 85 persons aboard.

A doctor, taken by helicopter to the remote scene at the 8,800 foot level of a snowy mountain, confirmed there were no survivors.

The Paradise Airlines Constellation vanished in a snowstorm Sunday while carrying 81 passengers to Nevada's casinos and ski resorts on a flight from San Jose, Calif.

Lt. Col. Alexander S. Sherry, deputy commander of the Western Air Rescue Center, Hamilton Air Force Base, told an airport news conference the wreckage was spotted west of the hamlet of Genoa, Nev.

Just before the conference, a helicopter pilot told the Associated Press the wreckage was found 200 feet below the top of a rugged peak towering among those which rise up to 10,000 feet or more in the ski and gambling playground around Lake Tahoe.

The mountain where California's biggest air tragedy occurred is named Genoa Peak.

The spotting helicopter was one of 17 which flew out today over the rugged wilderness scene near the site of the 1960 Squaw Valley Winter Olympics.

It was the third major commercial air crash in five days.

The plane, loaded to capacity, vanished about noon Sunday. Veteran pilot Henry Norris, 43, had just radioed that he was starting his 27-mile approach down 23 miles long Lake Tahoe to the airport in Tahoe Valley.

It was the first disaster in the two-year-old Paradise Airlines' operation.

The four-engine propeller-driven Constellation may have plunged into the huge lake.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward Levinson, Las Vegas, Nev., hotel owner and gambling casino operator, showed up at the Senate Rules Committee today to testify in the Bobby Baker investigation.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., the committee chairman, said Levinson came to the committee's office and accepted service of a subpoena.

Testimony from Levinson was scheduled for today's hearing, after questioning of William Kentor, a Chicago meat dealer, about fees being paid Baker on meat imported from a slaughterhouse in Haiti owned by the Murchison interests of Texas.

Sigelbaum Missing

The committee said last week it had U.S. marshals searching for Levinson and for Benjamin Sigelbaum, a Miami, Fla., real estate operator. Committee aides said no word had been received from Sigelbaum.

Both Levinson and Sigelbaum are stockholders in the Serve-U Corp., a vending machine company in which Baker has a major interest.

Over the weekend Sen. Hugh Scott accused the government of being determined to block when he lost his footing and fell the D-ring in his teeth, "should the Baker inquiry and asked, 25 feet into a drain pipe while working on an addition to the Kenosha waterworks."

Girl Scout Council, Friends Give Warm Farewell to Miss Pickles

In 17 years of association with thousands of young women and adults Miss Esther Pickles has formed many fast friendships. Since she announced her resignation as Executive Director of the Fox River Area Girl Scout Council, many have planned ways in which to wish her well in her new work with the Michigan Waterways Council at Port Huron, Mich. She will begin her work there March 15.

One of the first farewell parties for Miss Pickles was planned by the Cadette Scouts, who used a wishing well to show their hopes for her future. Above are Joanne Godschalx, Troop 32; Rinda Pardee, Troop 64; Miss Pickles and Kathy Walker, Troop 264. At right, at the Past President's luncheon Wednesday at Butte des Morts Golf Club, are Mrs. John Gall, Miss Pickles, Mrs. Raymond LeVee and Mrs. Rowland Campbell. Below, as Altrusans wished their member and officer good fortune in her new undertaking, are Mrs. Karl Kuchenbecker, Miss Genevieve Mortell, the guest of honor, Mrs. John Engel Sr., and Mrs. Thomas Davis. Miss Pickles party schedule began early in February, when she was guest of honor Feb. 4 at a dinner at the Conway Hotel. Hostesses at the event were 12 former leaders and scouts. Mrs. Norbert Werringer and Mrs. Kenneth Cavert helped plan the party.

Wish for Success
Cadette troops honored 'Pick' at a supper Feb. 11 at the First Methodist Church. Highlight of the affair was a wishing well, at which each of the scouts left a wish for the director's future success.

Mrs. Joseph Heaton entertained at an informal gathering Thursday. Friday, all those who had worked with Miss Pickles during her years in Appleton were invited to a tea in her honor from 3 to 5:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

A past presidents' luncheon, at which former and present council presidents were hostesses, was held Wednesday noon at Butte des Morts Golf Club. Saturday afternoon, members of Altrusa, of which Miss Pickles is an officer, bid their farewell at a tea at the home of the president, Mrs. Karl Kuchenbecker.

All Who Wanted to Wish Esther Pickles well in her new work and extend gratitude for her 17 years of work with the Fox River Area Girl Scouts were invited to a tea Friday at the First Methodist Church. Above, at the tea table, are Senior Scout Miss Louise Noffke; Mrs. Reginald Eckhart, New London; Miss Patricia Bodette, Madison, who formerly worked with this council; Mrs. John Hupler, Neenah, and Miss Jan Deming, a senior Scout of New London. Below, Mrs. Ralph Grobe, president of the council, left, and Mrs. Clarence Quall, Clintonville, right, present the former Council director with a gift.

Style Pageant Announced by Charity Guild

The Eighth Annual Pageant of Styles, sponsored by Our Lady of Charity Guild, has been scheduled Friday and Saturday at the Hotel Northland, Green Bay. The luncheon event will begin at 12:30 p.m.

The show this year will have a different look, with men doing the fashion commentary, presenting a male viewpoint of women's spring styles. Men's fashions will also be incorporated into the show.

Proceeds from the annual program are used to further the work of the Guild with the girls who reside at Our Lady of Charity Home for homeless and delinquent girls. There are over 70 girls, between the ages of 12 and 18, at the home.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. John Christman, 1800 N. Lawe St., Appleton.

Patricia Dix Fiancee of Mr. Eickert

HILBERT — The engagement of Miss Patricia Ann Dix to Norman Eickert Jr. has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dix, route 1, Hilbert. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eickert Sr., route 2, Brillion. Miss Dix is employed as a secretary by the law firm of Bonk, Lutz and Hertel, Chilton. Mr. Eickert is with the Arien family potluck supper will be served at 5 p.m. and a program is planned for the evening.

DeMolay to Observe 45th Anniversary

In observance of International DeMolay Week, March 15 to 22, the John F. Rose Chapter, has planned a Sweetheart Reception from 3 to 5 p.m. March 15 at the Masonic Temple. A family potluck supper will be served at 5 p.m. and a program is planned for the evening.

Committees Announced by Altar Society

KAUKAUNA—A committee to visit shut-ins of the parish was named at a meeting of the Christian Mothers Altar Society of St. Mary Catholic Church recently.

Committee members are Mrs. Peter Mitchell, Mrs. Arnold Stuber, Mrs. Cyril Robedeaux, Mrs. Joseph Munes, Mrs. Ann Peters, and Mrs. Edwin Van-evenhoven. Named to the kitchen and dining room committee for a three-month period were Mrs. Joseph Van Drasek, Mrs. Fred Ashauer, Mrs. Ray Schommer, Mrs. Clayton Van Dyke, Mrs. Reuben Van Lanen, Mrs. Carl Anderson and Miss Leona De Brue.

Preview of Books
Guest speaker was Miss Mary Lou Ziga, Green Bay, who gave a preview of some of the latest books for women interested in reading during Catholic press month.

Books reviewed include "Vatican Council II," "That the World May Believe," "Water in the Wine," "This Is Love," "A Soldier Priest Talks to You," and "Constitution on the Liturgy."

The Ailing House Walnut Oil Stain Recipe

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: So often a person needs perhaps a half cupful of stain and if you buy it by the pint, it is left over or thrown away. A recipe for walnut oil stain in the near future would be very helpful.

A: No need to buy a pint of stain: it is available in smaller quantity containers, if that's all you need! However, following is a formula for walnut oil stain: Thoroughly mix three parts boiled linseed oil, one part pure turpentine and one-half part Japan drier. To this mixture add four parts Turkey burnt umber and 1 part Vandyke brown (ground color-in-oil).

Q: You recently mentioned using an aniline dye to color shellac. Where is the aniline dye available in a walnut shade?

A: Large paint dealers usually stock aniline dyes. It is available in a walnut shade.

Q: The safety relief valves on hot water heaters are equipped with handles. What are the purpose of these handles?

A: Many safety relief valves have levers, or "handles," so that the valve can be opened manually. It is recommended that this be checked every couple of months to be sure it is functioning properly. But, don't "fiddle" with the valve other than this. If it becomes defective, have it replaced.

Q: Is there anything I could do about getting grease spots off cement? We have a patio and barbecue a lot in the summer so that there are a lot of grease splatters on the cement. The patio floor looks awful: scrubbing with soap and water doesn't help.

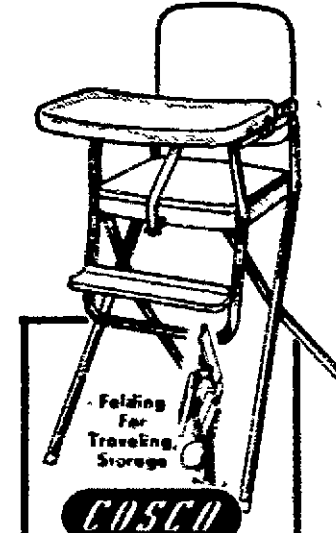

A: Try removing the grease splatters with a paste made of an oven-cleanser and powdered whiting (if oven-cleanser is spray-on type, just spray on stains). Allow to remain until dry, brush off and replace with fresh paste. Repeat treatment, if necessary. Be sure to wear rubber gloves while using the oven-cleanser. Then scrub with a strong, hot solution of trisodium phosphate or washing soda, followed by ample rinsing with clear water to remove all trace of the cleaning solution.

Q: Please advise proper sources for patterns for early American furniture, such as chairs, stools, dough tray end tables, etc.

A: Home Craftsman Magazine, Rock Island, Ill., publishes a manual, at nominal cost, entitled, "Construction of American Furniture Treasures." I suggest you send 25 cents to Albert Constantine & Sons, Inc., 2650 Eastchester Rd., New York, N. Y. 10061, for a copy of their very worthwhile catalog containing all kinds of necessary materials and tools for home woodworkers.

TAFFY'S TIPS

By Dolly Martin

MAIL CALL

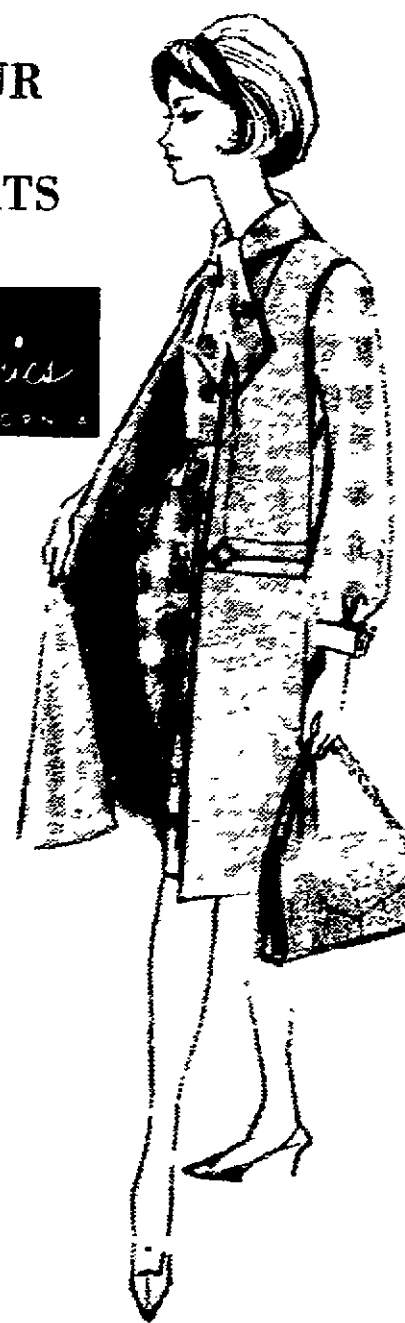

Dear Taffy:
Is there any exercise that's good for the bust line?
Sincerely,
FLATSO

Dear Flatso:

Your bust will develop in due time as your whole body grows. In the meantime here's an exercise that might be of some help. Stand straight and tall. Relax, then bring palms together in front of your bosom. Raise elbows level with your chest, and with palms still tightly clasped turn them up toward your chin. Now clench first your right fist and push against the other with moving jerks. Then alternate and push the left fist against your open hand. Then extend arms in front of you and make wide circling motions as if you were swimming. Another good workout to help increase and strengthen the bust muscles is to just circle your arms. Wind them up as if you are going to throw them away.

Keep happy,
TAFFY

Your Problems

Church Soprano Says Tenor of Choir's Alto Turning Base

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a strong suspicion there is a little hanky-panky going on in our church choir. I wouldn't mind except it is ruining what used to be a very fine choral group.

The choir master is a bachelor 32 years of age. He has been writing special arrangements for this alto whose voice is thin and unimpressive. The parts she has been singing should be done by a soprano. I am not saying this because I happen to be a soprano. Two tenors and a baritone have said the same thing.

The alto is a divorced woman who is at least five years older than the choir master. They do not go anywhere together publicly but I have seen his car parked outside her home on three occasions. She looks at him with cow-eyes when she sings her solos. It's sickening.

What do you think about such monkey - shines in a church group? Should it be tolerated? I'd like to know whether I should speak to our clergyman. — A Moral Person

Dear Person: Cut out the detective work and keep your eyes on the hymn book, sister.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am so humiliated I don't know what to do. Last night was our 20th wedding anniversary. We had 40 guests in for a catered dinner. My husband got so plastered that when the guests began to leave he went to the front closet, put on his coat and hat and started to go home with his mother and dad.

Franklin is not what you would call a drinking man. The last time he was intoxicated was seven years ago when he had too much wine. Our friends are not heavy drinkers. A few of the men got to feeling good but Franklin was the only one noticeably under the influence. To be the only drunk person at a party is bad enough, but when one is the host it is indecent.

Franklin's mother was horrified and phoned at 7:30 this morning to see how he was. Well, he is still in bed and it's noon. His mother is worried because he may become an alcoholic to every 50 guests.

lic. May we hear from you? — A Pound of Prevention

Dear Pound: I don't think Franklin's mother has much to worry about.

From your description of the shambles, I'd be willing to bet Franklin won't teach a drop for a long time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I quit high school to take a job when I was 17. I know it was foolish, but that $60 a week looked like a million dollars to me. My dad died when I was 12 and mom had a rough time bringing up four kids alone. My "million dollar job" ended after four months when the shop closed. I've been out of work for almost two years. My name is registered at 21 places. Everyone says "We'll call you" but nobody has called. The only jobs available for a girl who doesn't have a high school diploma is housework — and I hate it.

I would like to go back to high school and graduate but I'm 19 years old now and I'm afraid I'll look like a freak to the kids who are 14 and 15. I'd just die if they made fun of me. Please tell me what to do. — Another Ann

Dear Ann: I can't think of a better way to invest one year. Go, Girl. You'll never regret it. There are night school courses and correspondence courses, but returning a full time is best.

Today the demand is for skilled people. A high school diploma is essential if you are even to get a foot in the door — any place.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright 1964)

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

IRATE PARENTS

Dear Louise: Our 15-year-old daughter was invited to spend the weekend with a high school classmate. When the mother phoned, we permitted her to go. After our daughter's return home, we learned that there also were two boys there who are out-of-town cousins of the classmate. I blew my top. To make matters worse, the girl's parents went to a party that Saturday night and didn't get home until after two in the morning. If such an invitation is repeated by the girl or by any other girl, don't you think that we have the right to ask questions of the mothers such as, "Will there be constant chaperonage? By any chance, would there be any boys spending the weekend too?" As parents we don't want to hold too tight a rein and we don't want our daughter to resent us. But we do feel that we have the right to be informed of the entire situation before giving permission. Louise Davis Answers:

When the girl's mother telephoned you, it was her obligation to state that her two nephews would be spending the weekend and that there would be constant chaperonage. Even then, you could have declined the invitation and for an excuse. If necessary, you can have diplomatically stated that your 15-year-old daughter is too young and inexperienced for such a weekend and that you don't wish to expose her to a girl-boy house party until she is mature and has developed self-discipline. It is shocking that the parents took off to attend a party, thus leaving the boys and girls alone. I agree with you wholeheartedly. You are a wise parent and should have no fear of your daughter resenting your refusal, especially if she gets love along with discipline.

Parents Tell Engagement Of Daughter

AMHERST—Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Engbretson, route 1, Amherst, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kaye, to Robert Hoffman. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hoffman, 1111 Dexter St., New London.

Miss Engbretson is employed at Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton. Her fiancé is with Fasker's Barber Shop, New London.

Genevieve Paulson Circle Plans Projects for 1964 65

Projects committee members Mrs. Joseph Shift and Mrs. Warren Carlson reviewed the 1964-65 projects calendar when the Genevieve Paulson Circle of the King's Daughters held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. Don Utschig. The first event will be the opera, "Abduction from the Harem", jointly sponsored by six King's Daughters Circles. Mrs. Rudy Cherkasky and Mrs. Richard Faa, Genevieve Paulson, representatives on the joint committee, distributed tickets and told of plans for the programs. Mrs. Faas is chairman of program preparation.

A coffee is scheduled May 2 at the home of Mrs. Ernest Miller, who is serving as co-chairman with Mrs. A. Harold Martin of a newly-created orientation committee. New members will be guests of honor.

Participation in the March 9 Good Neighbor Fair at Valley Fair Shopping Center is also planned. The circle will offer miniature doll clothes, knit by members. Mrs. Cherkasky, and Mrs. Don Ritter.

A Lovelier You

Fashion Forecast, 1970

Fashions of the Future will show the New York World's Fair foretell hemlines rising well above the knee in the year 1970. Wow!

As length now stands—and sits—skirts are long enough. Surely they are a test of shapeliness systems that once were touted around the world.

Perhaps the scarcity is due to lack of training. Girls used to be taught graceful ways. As a result they looked willowy, whether or not they were.

There can be no doubt that a leg appears more shapely when it is graceful. So why not learn to stand and sit with the legs adroitly poised? To make a beginning, stand with knees touching and slightly bent; with the heel of one foot tucked into the instep of the other.

When sitting, place the feet flat on the floor, one a bit ahead of the other, and draw the knees together. Or cross the legs, just above the knees. Or sit on the "bias"—hips aslant on the chair and legs doubled back.

To judge your efforts, test them before a long mirror. A mirror is a girl's least prejudiced critic. Furthermore, after a few sessions, you will find many other poses cannot help but wonder what that increase your grace-ability happened to the American long-jutes.

and grace, one that few legs only a few mirrored sessions, meet. After observation, you will find many other poses cannot help but wonder what that increase your grace-ability happened to the American long-jutes.

Lounge Top

Here's an easy way for a teenager to create a fun top to wear with slim pants or Bermuda shorts. All you have to do is buy a very simple pattern for the overtop and some plain cotton fabric. Then add the zany stick figure in bias tape.

You'll need: Pat Scott commercial pattern for sleeveless overtop with side or back closing; cotton fabric — yardage indicated on the pattern; bias tape in wide, single fold and double fold width; powder puff 2½ inches in diameter for the head; 4 to 5 inch circle of beige fabric to cover head; two small buttons for eyes; rickrack scraps for the mouth; baby rickrack for the fish line; scrap of fabric for fish; thread to match tapes.

To make: 1. Cut out pattern. Before putting the blouse together, apply the trim on the front piece. 2. Trace or draw a single line figure onto the blouse. 3. Cover the powder puff with the beige fabric. To do this, run a row of gathering stitches around the edge of the circle.

fold the tapes at the body joints and gently curve wherever needed. Fold the tape ends under; pin and top-stitch at each edge of the tape to secure in place.

5. Make hair out of the double fold tape and hand-tack to the head. Hand-tack the head in place and add more hair if desired.

6. The fish is made of ging-ham check and applied by hand or zig zag machine. The fish line is a strip of baby rickrack top-stitched in place.

7. Now, you can finish the blouse following the pattern instruction sheet.

This is the kind of trim that is exceptionally striking on a beach dress. Just use a slim shift pattern and apply the trim in the same way. By using this as your guide, you can create any type of figure you wish. Dress your figure in a bathing suit, tennis shorts with a tennis racket, etc.

Patricia Scott's new booklet, How to Handle Special Fabrics, will save you time and trouble. It also includes a needle and thread chart. For your copy of this authoritative booklet, write to Patricia Scott in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover costs of printing and handling.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters. (Copyright, 1964)

Gather, place over powder puff, gather a bit more and hand-tack to puff. Sew on button eyes and rickrack for the mouth.

4. Use single fold bias tape for the neck, arms and legs. Use wide bias tape for the clothes overlapping skin area.

Miss London, Edwin Schueler Engaged to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton London, 2816 E. Wisconsin Ave., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Edwin A. Schueler Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Schueler Sr., 823 W. Spring St.

Miss London attended Wisconsin State College, LaCrosse, and is employed at L. L. Cook Co. Her fiancé, employed at Base-man Floor Sanding Service, is serving in the Army at Fort Hood, Texas.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Opening lead — 4 3

West obediently led the eight of clubs. His partner had bid clubs, and West was a law-abiding citizen. Still, this amateurish opening lead gave South the contract.

Declarer won the first trick with the ace of clubs, cashed the ace of spades and ruffed a spade in dummy. He returned to his hand with the king of hearts to ruff another spade and then cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart.

When South next led the fourth round of spades West could do nothing to stop dummy from ruffing. Declarer led another heart from dummy and ruffed in his hand, and then led his last spade and ruffed with dummy's last trump even though the spade was good.

East could over-ruff with the ace of trumps, but that trick and a club were all the defenders could get.

Full of Suggestions
West was full of suggestions when the play had ended. "Maybe you should throw the king of spades when the third heart is led," he advised his partner. "Or maybe you should step up with the ace of trumps on that trick to stop the crossruff." Neither play would defeat the contract. West himself had missed his chance when he made the club opening lead.

North's refusal to stay in no-trump made it clear that the dummy would show up with a singleton. West should have led a trump to reduce dummy's ruffing power.
East would take the ace of trumps and return a trump. South would struggle on for a few minutes but would eventually go down at least one trick.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S Q 7 6 H Q J 9 5 2 D 5 3 2 C 8 7. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. Despite the excellent trump support this is a woefully weak hand and you can afford only a weak response.

Child Needs
Friends Offer

It may take some advance planning to give each of your children a chance to visit the homes of school or church friends. When the friend doesn't live in the neighborhood it may mean several miles of driving to make this visit possible.

Visiting does provide new experiences. A child will probably learn many things that you wouldn't have thought of as being new to him.

People live in different kind of houses and they have different furnishings and equipment. Not only are homes different but so are people. And your small child needs to find this out.

In your family your child may be the oldest. When he visits a family where his special friend has several older brothers and sisters he sees a different relationship. Or he may learn from being with a family of all boys, or this may be his first chance to see the brother-sister relationship.

Your child may choose a friend with a different nationality or religious background. Even food habits and daily customs may differ. How you discipline your child may be different, too.

You may wonder about your child's manner when he is away from home. You hope that he will practice what he has been taught. If you have your child's friend visiting in your home you may have to discipline him. Go ahead and discipline both your child and the guest rather than letting the situation get out of hand. Then don't punish your child later by barring other visits or other trips to friend's homes.

Your child can learn by having friends in and doing visiting. Help him have fun and yet learn from the experience.

Live Within Your Income
Selecting Carpet or Rug Calls for Careful Selection

BY MARY FEELEY
Buying new carpeting or a new rug calls for some careful planning in any household. There's more to be considered than price and color.

Before you try to make up your mind on either of these points, ask yourself why you're buying it. To beautify the room? To impress your husband's business associates? To meet an emergency? To reduce the traffic noises as the children come trooping in?

Any one of these reasons is thoroughly legitimate. Just be sure you keep certain basic facts in mind so your money will buy what you really need and want.

This is not the time to go "bargain hunting" in the usual sense of the term. The price tag is a pretty good indication of what you're getting. What may seem an expensive purchase right now may be a real investment. The carpeting that goes into the living room this year may very well live another life years from now, after you've moved it into the bedroom or the study. Ease of cleaning will be a major importance — and that means whether you can wash away the spills and spots when they occur, so that your floor covering doesn't grow old too soon from soil. How the carpeting looks under both daylight and artificial lighting should be considered. The style and scale of your furnishings should also influence you. Take your time before you put your money down.

How carpeting is made — the amount of fiber put into the square yard — will mean a lot to you after you start living with it. Density is the key to good quality. Maybe you can't count the number of loops to the square inch — 8 to 11 indicating quality — but feel it. A sturdy pile means it can take a lot of wear. There have been so many interesting developments in carpeting, you aren't confined to any one particular type of fiber. You can take your choice: wool, nylon, acrylics, cotton, rayon blends, and so on. Each has its own characteristics. Wool wears like iron. Nylon can be kept clean with plain detergent suds. The acrylics and rayon take beautiful colors and variations of tones. Cotton is soft underfoot, and can take repeated washings.

If the carpeting you're buying is for a heavy-traffic area, you want something that isn't going to show every foot print. The tweedy blends can stand up under rigorous use. But don't get the idea that a pale color under foot is too fragile to be practical. Did you know that certain shades, such as putty beige, often show less wear and tear and soil than a deep tone? A neutral color is a good choice, too, when you're thinking in terms of using the carpeting in some other room later on.

Judging Price
In order to judge the price of carpeting, consider the number of years you expect it to last. If one kind of carpeting costs $5 per square yard and can be used satisfactorily for about two years, then that carpeting will cost $2.50 per square yard per year. Another carpeting at $10 per square yard, lasting ten years, will only cost $1 per square yard per year. This is the sort of preliminary mathematics you should apply.

The term "broadloom," incidentally, is not actually a weave, as some people think. It is used only to describe the size of the loom that the rug or carpeting is woven on — wider than 36 inches. It doesn't necessarily indicate quality. And this leads to another point for consideration: maybe wall-to-wall carpeting is not what you really want and need. Maybe a rug would better serve your purposes. Rugs can be used in rooms of different sizes over the years, turned around to equalize the wear, taken up for easy care and cleaning, and can give the impression of wall-to-wall without the problems of installation.

Other "carpet" words well known in most households are Axminster and Wilton, which take their names from the locales in which they were first made. Axminster is a cut-pile carpet, with wool and wool-man-made fibers used in the pile yarn. Height of the pile varies from a quarter inch to one and three-eighths inch. This type of carpet is made on a complex loom, and is notable for its unlimited number of colors and intricate designs.

Worsted Wilton is known for its strong, quality construction. It is distinguished from wool Wilton by short pile and tightly woven back. Wool Wilton has a softer pile, but is less resilient than the worsted.

When you're figuring up the cost of the carpeting or rug that best suits your needs, count in the cost of the cushion or padding that will go under it. This extra expense may be about $2 a square yard — but it will help to lengthen the life of the carpeting or rug, and makes for more walking comfort.

30-Cents-a-Head Gets Canadians Cultural Center, Festival

CHARLOTTE TOWN, P.E.I. (AP) — With every Canadian chipping in 30 cents, this small city is getting a $5.6-million memorial and cultural center.

Charlottetown has a population of 18,000 and Prince Edward Island, the smallest Canadian province, has 105,000. Thousands of others come in the summer to take advantage of a cool but sunny climate and miles of sandy beaches.

The memorial is to mark the meeting 100 years ago of the men who confederated Canada into a nation. It will be opened May 5, with a festival of Canadian arts continuing through the summer. Theater and opera companies will appear, along with such stars as pianist Glenn Gould and the comedians Wayne and Shuster. There will be pageants and lobster festivals.

The buildings was financed by federal and provincial governments at the rate of 30 cents per capita.

Confusion, That's What

LONDON (AP) — A divorce case gave the judge and court stenographer a tough time last week. The plaintiff was named Millar, the defendant was named Millar-Ford, the correspondent was named Mellor and the chief witness was named Miller.

When Justice Sir Seymour Karminski finally got it all sorted out he awarded Monica Millar, 24, a divorce decree from Michael Millar, 26, a singer known professionally as Emile Ford, on the grounds of his adultery with his secretary, Miss Constance Mellor, 22, attested to by a private detective, Dennis Miller, 38.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers was a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Girl Seriously Hurt When Hit By Automobile

Connie Liebsch, 11, Run From Behind Truck, Police Say

Connie Liebsch, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Liebsch, route 1, Appleton, was in serious condition today in Appleton Memorial Hospital where she was taken after she was struck by a car at U.S. 10 and 41 about 7:45 a.m.

County police said the girl was running toward a school bus parked on the north side of U.S. 10 when she was struck by a car being driven east by Mrs. Duane Harvey, 19, route 1, Weyauwega.

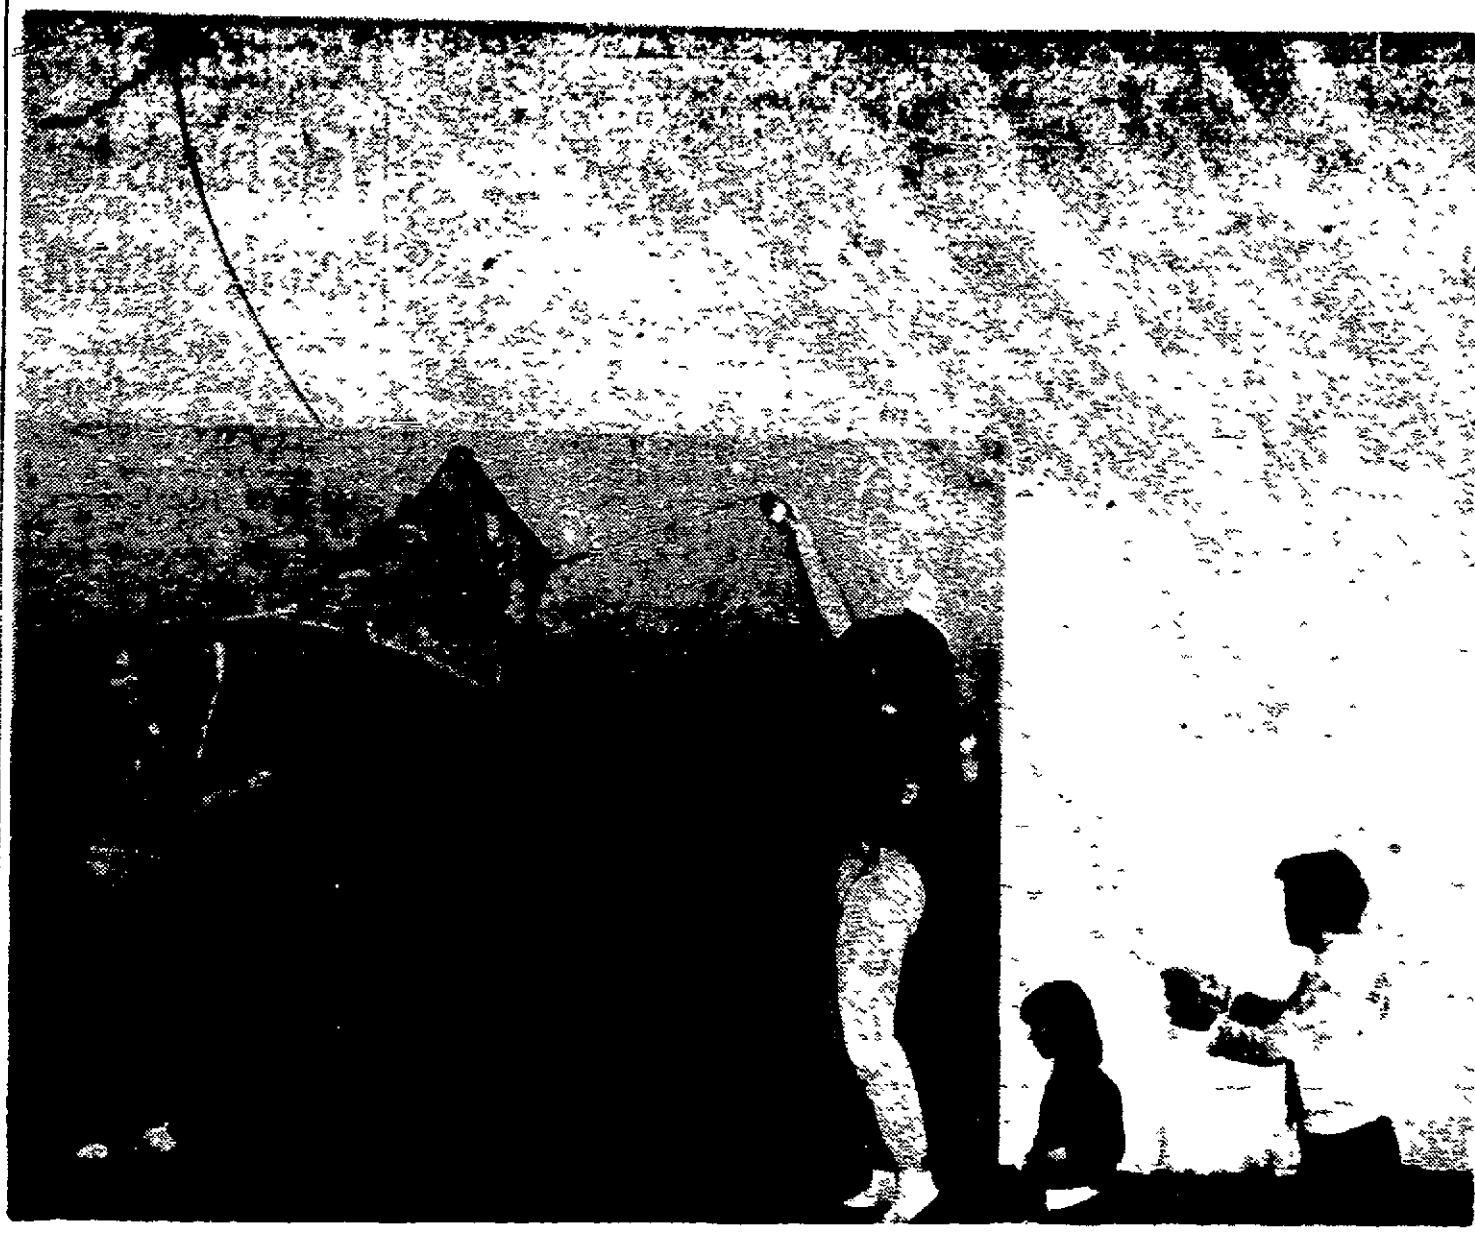

Hospital officials said the girl received injuries and fractures of her elbow, knees and head. Mrs. Harvey told police she was proceeding toward Appleton and saw the school bus stopped on the opposite side of the street. She said she saw no students around the bus.

Darted Into Road Suddenly, Mrs. Harvey said, the girl darted into the road from behind a stopped truck and collided with the right front of the car. Police said it appeared the child may have hit the pavement "pretty hard" after the impact, but it has not been learned if the child flew through the air after being hit by the car. Mrs. Harvey said she lost sight of the child immediately after the accident and did not see her again until she stopped her car and walked to where the accident occurred.

Traffic police said the child had come from her trailer home on the southside of U.S. 10 and was running toward the waiting school bus. Police said the red warning lights on the bus were operating. The bus driver gave aid until police and an ambulance arrived at the scene.

Catholic Society to Hear Retreat League Official

James Asmuth, Neenah, president of the Chambers Island Holy Name Retreat House, League and executive vice president of the National Catholic Laymen's Retreat Conference, will speak on retreats to the St. Joseph Holy Name Society at a breakfast meeting following the 8 a.m. mass Sunday in the school cafeteria. The society will participate in "Enthronement of the Holy Bible" at the meeting, planned to call attention to renewed emphasis on scripture in Catholic life.

St. Therese Cub Scout Leaders Honored at Blue and Gold Banquet

Adult leaders and scouts of St. Therese Cub Scout Pack 29 were honored at the annual Blue and Gold Banquet Thursday. Outgoing committeemen Roy Pointer, Thomas Nooyen and Richard Huelsbeck were presented with plaques in appreciation for their three years service to the pack. They will join Boy Scout Troop 29 as committeemen.

New committeemen introduced were Jerome Gomm, cubmaster; Lee Destache, unit chairman; James Ourada, awards chairman, and Douglas Dempsey, projects chairman. Mrs. Ambrose Misevics was presented with a plaque in recognition of outstanding work as a den mother. Den chiefs each received certificates for their work with the den mothers. Awards were presented to the Cub Scouts.

The Packet Singers of Xavier High School entertained at the banquet. Mrs. John Christman, Mrs. Misevics, Mrs. Richard Edge and Mrs. Lewis Callaway were in charge of dinner arrangements.

Spring-Like Weather

Winter 'On the Lamb' As March Makes Debut

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

That wonderful gal Mother Nature unpacked her season's finery Sunday.

And then she paraded throughout the Fox Cities throwing the area the kiss of spring.

The arrival of March like a lamb sent temperatures soaring into the 50's and was indicative of what to expect for the next few days.

With the ldes of March now with us, the final chapter of one of the mildest winters on record has all but been written.

No doubt about it... the weather was something to talk about and everyone did.

For the outdoor sportsman it drew down the curtain on another ice fishing season.

Shanty City Gone

Within a matter of hours over the weekend, Lake Win-nebago's "Shanty City" disappeared. Along the shores of the big lake sturgeon fishermen worked feverishly to get shacks off the buckling ice.

Where last week the big inland lake was dotted with fishermen's abodes, by late Sunday afternoon the seasonal subdivision had pulled its annual, hectic, last-minute disappearance act. High Cliff Park was transformed into a buzz of activity as hundreds flocked to the scenic area.

Young and old took hikes through the winding trails, and hand-holding teenagers were further proof that spring is patiently waiting in the wings.

Small youngsters greeted the huge statue of Chief Red Bird perched high atop the glacial mountain.

And, as the bright sun beat down and mirrored Mother Nature's wondrous landscape, one got the feeling that Red Bird wanted to smile and wink at the old gal.

We did.

Oshkosh Member of County Board Dies

Land Reverts To Residential Class Zoning

Property Had Been Classed Two-Family Two Weeks Ago

Lots on the southwest and northwest corners of E. Byrd and N. Bay streets will remain in a single family district.

This was the recommendation of the Appleton Plan Commission today as it heard objections from a group of 15th Ward residents over a rezoning request.

Two weeks ago the commission rezoned the lots from single family to two-family, but the matter was referred back by the common council.

Residents in the area claimed they had no knowledge of the rezoning request, and as a result did not appear at the previous hearing. Ald. Al C. Fischer said at the time he had heard of no objection to the rezoning.

Today, however, residents did appear and said the construction of duplex apartments in the single family residential area would not be in their estimation, bad planning.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen previously said the area was marginal, and could be zoned for either category. However, Rasmussen said neighborhood objection would be enough to deny the rezoning request. The commission voted unanimously to rescind its previous action. The recommendation will go to the council Wednesday night.

Police Investigating Theft of Dead Foxes

KAUKAUNA — City police are investigating the theft of 12 foxes which were hanging outside at the David Doolittle residence, 700 W. Division St., sometime during the past few weeks, according to Harold Engerson, chief of police.

Doolittle told police he was a bounty and then use the pelts pried by Ralph LaMaide who said he discovered the entry after he returned from work today.

Planners Want Dilapidated Buildings to be Condemned Commissioner Raymond LeVee Calls Some Sites 'Disgraceful'

Action should be taken by the Appleton building inspector to thought should be torn down. have rundown, unoccupied buildings condemned and razed, the grace to our city," LeVee said city plan commission said today.

Commissioner Raymond LeVee said he recently toured a southside neighborhood and found two homes and a barn he thought should be torn down. "Property like this is a disgrace to our city," LeVee said as he described the buildings.

"The barn is a fire and rat trap, and the building inspector should look at it as soon as he can and take action," LeVee said.

The commission member said he thought there were other buildings in the city needing a check by the building inspector. Other commissioners said they agreed with him.

Request Check Building Inspector Charles Magnette was requested to check the buildings LeVee referred to in his verbal condemnation of dilapidated structures. In other action, the commission:

—Denied a request to rezone from single to two-family district the lot on the southeast corner of McArthur and Oneida streets.

—Held up action on the rezoning petition of Lawrence Seidl, operator of Lary's Ambulance Service, who wants his property at 116 S. Weimar St. rezoned from single family to commercial to conform to the city ordinance. Seidl was hospitalized and unable to attend His hearing now is set for April 6 at 2:15 a.m.

—Agreed to withdraw a rezoning request by owners of Riverside Greenhouse. Police will check parking areas regularly and any car found to be blocking the flow of traffic by improper parking will be given a citation. Eliminating parking in front of the church is designed to aid pedestrian traffic leaving the church.

Police have received complaints about parking practices, which have completely blocked entrances or exits to parking lots making it impossible for persons to get cars out in an emergency or getting an emergency vehicle onto the lot. Signs notifying people of traffic flow changes will be erected in both lots. Persons living within a reasonable distance from the church are requested to leave cars at home rather than add to congestion and the problem.

Man Recovering From Injuries After Fall

Ira Shriver, 62, 922 W. Grove St., was in satisfactory condition today after a fall from a ladder Sunday.

Authorities said Shriver had been on the ladder in his garage when it broke, pitching him to the concrete floor.

Shriver's head was cut, and several teeth knocked out. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance Service.

Report Appleton Theft

Police are investigating a report that an apartment at 516 1/2 W. College Ave. was entered early this morning. Taken was a roll of pennies and a hunting knife. The apartment is occupied by Ralph LaMaide who said he discovered the entry after he returned from work today.

City Acts to Condemn, Raze 'Unfit' Home

Action Requested by Buckley, Residents, Building Inspectors

Action was taken today to institute proceedings to condemn and raze a small home at 1953 E. Woodland Ave.

The Appleton Plan Commission made the move after receiving reports from various municipal inspectors that the building is not fit for human habitation and should be torn down.

Plan commissioners also had before them a petition signed by several 14th Ward residents who asked something be done about the building.

Last week, Ald. George Buckley (14th) introduced a resolution in the common council asking for condemnation of the building owned by Lester Straubel.

Large Family Reportedly, a large family lives in the home and two of its members are confined to wheelchairs. The husband is working fulltime and some assistance is provided by the Outagamie County Welfare Department.

Commissioners asked why the county welfare department had not relocated the family in another home.

The owner of the home appeared before the commission, and said although the tenants had not paid their rent for the past year, he did not want to evict them until receiving assurance they had another home or would be taken care of.

Admits Condition He admitted the condition of the building was bad and said he would tear it down, providing the people were given another place to live.

"I really think this a matter for the county welfare department," the owner said. Mayor Clarence Mitchell said he and City Welfare Director Merton Ehrlich had been in contact with county welfare officials who said they would cooperate "to see what can be done to help these people and solve the problem."

AVS Offers 6 Session Course on Small Engine Maintenance, Repair

The Appleton Vocational and Adult School is sponsoring a special class in small engines as a night school program to satisfy numerous requests for a class on service, maintenance and repair of small engines such as these on power lawn mowers, wash machines and tillers.

The course, starting March 17, is designed to give the student a general plan of service and adjustment to maintain good motor operation. The course consists of six two-hour meetings and covers maintenance and adjustment of two cycle and four cycle gasoline motors.

Service manuals from representative companies are used as basic texts in a study and guide to service. New motors by Briggs and Stratton are used in demonstration while used motors in need of actual repair and service are used in the performance of service repair and adjustment.

Registration is open now at the Appleton Vocational and Adult School. Classes will begin Tuesday, March 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. and meet Tuesdays and Thursdays for three weeks.

Neenah Group to Study Bus Problem

School Board Chairman Names Transportation Committee

NEENAH — Paul Groth, president of the Neenah Board of Education, today named a lay transportation study committee and there will be an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday, in the school administrative offices.

Wayne P. Gasper, 227 Alcott Drive, was named chairman, and Carl Matson, 93 S. Lake St., was named vice chairman of the committee which is being asked by the board of education to review the transportation policies of the Neenah Joint School District. When the committee has reported to the board, a policy will be set to go into effect at the beginning of the 1964-65 school year.

In his letter to each committee member Groth stated: "As you no doubt are aware, there has been considerable publicity and discussion as to what amount and to whom transportation should be provided within the district."

"Because views range from 'providing no transportation at all under two miles within the district' to 'extension of transportation to nearly all students' the board of education directed that a committee of citizens be organized representing as nearly as possible all viewpoints to review present transportation policies, statutory requirements, and the history of the present policies and recommendations to the board of education for their consideration."

"The following list of members represent an attempt to comply with this directive concerning the makeup of the committee:

Willis Thorson, Larsen; Harold Mulvey, 119 Plummer Court; Dr. John R. Nebel, 1313 Nicolet Blvd.; Mrs. Raymond Gallmeier, 1868 Winchester Road; John C. Neubauer Jr., 138 Villa Drive; Edmund Bloch, 401 Ninth St.; Harland Schuelke, 117 Andrew, and Mrs. R. C. Hands, 247 Berkely; and

Ex-officio members: L. A. Gilbertson, board of education member and chairman of the reorganization transportation committee; Dr. Donald Scott, superintendent; James Clark, business manager, responsible for bus routes, driver assignments, state aids and compliance with statutory regulations; and Earl Br'en, supervisor of buildings and grounds."

Menasha Five Wins Title in Class B Meet

Wanserski's Tops Pond's Sports in Championship Tilt

MENASHA — Wanserski's captured the St. John Athletic Association Class B Basketball Tournament championship with a convincing 79-58 triumph over the Pond's of Appleton Sunday night.

Ziefle Opticians of Green Bay took third place laurels by stopping the Traders, 90-81.

When three Pond's players were ejected in the second period for fighting, the former had to go the rest of the way with three men.

Wanserski's held a 24-12 lead at the end of the first period and was on top 47-25 at halftime.

Scoring honors for the victors went to Tom Zeleske with 24 points on 12 baskets. Jim Peerenboom collected 17 and Bill Gamme 15.

Don Schroeder paced the losers with 24 points while Jim Maahs posted 21.

Traders held a 27-24 lead over Ziefle's after a quarter but the score was deadlocked at 48-all at halftime. The boys moved in front, 72-68, after three frames and then had an 18-17 advantage in the fourth.

Roy Smith hit 26 points, Ray Rottier hooped 22 and Dick Roeder put in 19 for Ziefle's. Hank Peerenboom canned 38 for Traders while Paul Felton posted 15 and Lee Never had 14.

Jim Maahs of Pond's was selected as the most valuable player in the tourney and Jim Peerenboom was named second most valuable.

Named to the all-tournament team were Carl Kuehl of Ray's Park Inn, Two Rivers; Len Stewart and Roy Smith, Ziefle's; Tom Fredrich, B and B Tap, Oshkosh; Lee Never and Hank Peerenboom, Traders; Tom Zeleske and Tom Parker, Wanserski's.

Former Appleton Music Teacher Has Article Published in Magazine

Anthony Bacich, a former Appleton High School teacher, has had an article published in the national magazine of the American String Teachers Association. He is now orchestra director at West High School, Waterloo, Iowa.

The article was based on a report on recruitment and motivation of string players in school orchestras which Bacich delivered at a state convention of string teachers.

The Waterloo schools' symphony orchestra, under Bacich, played a concert at the recent state convention of music teachers and student musicians at the State College of Iowa.

Appleton Police Seek Foreign Car Driver; Man Dragged 2 Blocks

Appleton police are seeking a driver of a small foreign car which dragged a man more than two blocks Sunday afternoon before dropping him on the side of the road.

Robert Smith, 28, 623 E. Brewster St., received a broken right leg and burns to his shoulder when he was dragged from the intersection of Meade Street and E. Wisconsin Avenue for about two blocks. Police said Smith and driver of the car had had an argument in a nearby tavern before the incident. Smith was holding onto the car when the car drove away from the tavern.

The man was found lying beside the road by a motorist who took Smith home. Linda's Ambulance Service was called later and Smith was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

State Democrat Session Planned for Green Bay

MADISON — The March meeting of the Democratic state committee will be held in Green Bay at 1 p.m. March 22.

Democrats Vote Funds for Bounty System

Project for More Voter Registration Set for Milwaukee

MADISON — Democrats can assure a victory for their Wisconsin ticket from top to bottom next November if they can persuade a majority of the 120,000 unregistered voters in Milwaukee County to register and vote.

The assertion came as the committee voted funds for a pilot project in a so-called "bounty system" of securing higher voter registrations in some of the selected downtown wards of the Wisconsin metropolis.

William Riggins, Milwaukee party chairman, was given $3,000 and the promise of more if the most effective way to spend party money, he said, as he at its weekend session here he will try to arrange for a change of registration stations proves effective.

State Committee Chairman Louis Hanson, otherwise a foe of that day.

China Backs Cambodia Position on Neutrality

TOKYO (AP) — Red China came out last week for Cambodia's call for an international conference to guarantee its neutrality. But it did not mention chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk's threat to sign a military pact with Peking by the end of May.

rick J. Lucey of the party said that there are thousands of unregistered voters in Milwaukee precincts which support Democratic candidates by margins of 60 to 80 per cent.

Potential Votes
With such a harvest of potential votes arranged, he said, the Democrats can be sure of victory state-wide in November, even if the Republican-Democrat ratio in the rest of the state remains unchanged.

Lucey said he feels that such a system of securing new registrations can become the most effective of party expenditures, and speculated that one day the party may choose to invest as much as $50,000 in such an effort.

"In the long run it may be the most effective way to spend party money," he said, as he at its weekend session here he will try to arrange for a change of registration stations proves effective.

FACSIMILE BALLOT NOTICE OF JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT PRIMARY ELECTION March 10, 1964

STATE OF WISCONSIN } ss Office of County Clerk COUNTY OF OUTAGAMIE }

To the Electors of Outagamie County:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an election is to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election precincts in the County of Outagamie on the 10th day of March, 1964, of which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column, in the sample ballot below.

Information to Voters

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters.

A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which must have indorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking his ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

At a nonpartisan primary election, the voter shall place a cross or other mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, or by inserting or writing in the name of any other candidate.

The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed indorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is visually handicapped, he may have anyone assist him in marking his ballot or operating a voting machine. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability.

The following is a facsimile of the official ballot:

AVS Considers Special Driver Training Class

Second Session Would Start After First May 5

Appleton Vocational and Adult School will consider starting a special driver education class for Appleton high school students attending school outside the city, if the demand is great enough, according to AVS Director Carl Bertram.

The regular 30 hours of classroom instruction for high school students will start May 5. However, Bertram said he has received several calls from parents of students who want to take the high school course but will not be here to start the classroom instruction because they are away attending school.

Bertram said the school will consider starting a special class for high school students at a suitable time in June if there is a large enough group interested. He said a group of about 25 would be required. He asked persons interested to call the school office.

Student Requirements
High school students are required to take 30 hours of classroom instruction, six hours of driving observation and six hours of behind-the-wheel instruction. Appleton High School offers the classroom instruction in a cooperative program with the vocational school. Xavier and Fox Valley Lutheran high schools do not offer the classroom instruction, and the AVS program for their students and others who need the classroom course as started two years ago.

Registration for driver education classes for both high school students and adults will be taken the week of March 23 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the AVS office. Classes for adults will start May 20, and behind-the-wheel instruction will start June 8. The adult course consists of 14 hours of classes and six hours of driving instruction.

Technical Groups Plan Joint Meeting, Tour at Wausau

A joint meeting of two technical groups in the state is scheduled for March 10 at the Wausau Elks Club.

The Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry (TAPPI), Lake States section, and the Winnebago section of American Society for Quality Control (ASQC) will participate in a program which includes a tour of Wausau Paper Mills Co., Brookfield.

The program will be aimed at explaining "time network analysis" and "critical path methods" involving computer applications to problems of the paper industry.

Road Plan Too Costly, YGOP Told

A crash highway program would cost Wisconsin citizens $92 million in interest charges alone, Outagamie Young Republicans were told Thursday by F. M. Elliott of the Wisconsin Petroleum Council.

Approval of the April advisory referendum would signal the end of "pay-as-you-go" for the state's highway program, ranked already in the top three in mileage completed or under way in the federal Interstate Highway System, Elliott said.

Meeting at the Conway Hotel, county YGOP members also discussed upcoming events.

The state YGOP convention in Milwaukee, April 24 through April 26, is to be attended by 28 local delegates.

"An Action Course in Practical Politics" will be the topic of Robert Thome on March 14 at the Green Bay Elks Club. Scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., the course can be attended by 10 members of the Outagamie club, according to John Lorenz, county chairman.

A state-wide debate tournament, sponsored by the YGOP, was discussed. Lorenz said filing deadline for entrants is March 15. Final competition will be April 11 at Whiting's Boat-house, Neenah. Winning team members can win $100 each for first place and $25 each for second place.

The next county meeting will be held March 17.

Four Calumet Crashes Result in One Injury

Sheboygan Motorcyclist Hospitalized After Vehicle Leaves Road Near Kiel

CHILTON — Four Calumet County accidents over the week-end resulted in one injury.

Richard Orlebeke, 23, Sheboygan, was taken to a Sheboygan hospital after a motorcycle he was driving missed a curve on State 149 one mile west of Kiel at 1:45 a.m. Sunday.

Orlebeke received head and knee injuries as a result of the mishap. County police said he was traveling east when the accident occurred.

Gerald H. Urban, 22, Milwaukee, escaped injury when a car he was driving went off State 57 one mile north of Kiel at 1:15 a.m. Sunday.

Urban told county police he fell asleep.

Damage was estimated at more than $100.

A two-car accident at the intersection of E. Main and State streets in Chilton Saturday resulted in damage estimated at more than $100.

Cars driven by Warren B. Jordan, 37, 502 State St., Chilton, and Oscar J. Miller, 72, 305 N. State St., Chilton, collided at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

ages estimated at more than $100 but no injuries.

A car driven by Walter F. Michiels, 32, Sherwood, struck a mailbox on County Trunk N, five miles northwest of Sherwood. Michiels told county police he was traveling south when an approaching car failed to dim its lights and was in his lane of traffic. He took the ditch in order to avoid a collision and was struck the mailbox, he said.

Kindergarten Registration Wednesday

NEENAH — Parents with children eligible to attend kindergarten in the Neenah Joint School District next fall have been asked by Dr. Donald Scott, superintendent of schools, to register them from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. and 3:45 to 4:15 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, at the school the child will be attending.

Boys and girls who will be five years of age before Sept. 30, will be able to attend kindergarten in the fall. Parents are required to bring the child's birth certificate to the registration but it is not necessary to bring the child.

This is the only week when registrations will be taken and parents are urged by the superintendent to take care of the matter during the designated days. A large kindergarten enrollment is anticipated for next fall and this early registration will assure the child a place in kindergarten next year.

Citizens of Neenah Urged to Contribute in Band Booster Drive

NEENAH — Citizens of Neenah were urged by Neenah Mayor Carl Loehning to contribute generously to the support of the sale of the Neenah band booster buttons today through Saturday.

The buttons are being sold to help defray expenses of the Neenah High School Varsity Band's trip to the 45th Manitoba Exposition Music Festival at Winnipeg, Canada in June.

"I urge all citizens to wear a button as evidence of our appreciation to the boys and girls who have served us so often and worked so diligently in earning this invitation" to participate in the festival, Mayor Loehning said in the proclamation recognizing the fund raising campaign.

1st Expense Sheets Due

NEENAH — The first expense sheets of candidates for the March 10 primary election in Neenah are due Tuesday, according to R. V. Hauser, city clerk. The sheets are to be turned in at the city clerk's office.

Proxmire Says Tax Cut Vote Politically Risky

Senator Admits It's Dangerous to Oppose Bill in Election Year; Measure Unsound

MADISON — Sen. William Proxmire agreed Saturday night it is "politically risky to vote against a tax cut in an election year," but he said the tax reduction signed last week by President Johnson is dangerous because the national budget still is not balanced.

"I was convinced that it was wrong to cut taxes without cutting spending enough to at least come close to balancing the budget," Proxmire said of his vote last week against the tax reduction bill.

Proxmire was asked to comment on the prediction of Wilbur Renk, his probable fall election Republican opponent, in Green Bay one week ago. The senator was "vulnerable" because of his vote against the tax cut. Renk said the tax change could mean as much as $250 a family and a spotty Wisconsin economy needs the cash injection.

Budget Not Balanced
"I must vote for what I think is right. The tax cut is likely to be inflationary because the budget is not balanced. What we really are doing is borrowing from the people to give them a tax cut."

"If the tax cut causes a 3 or 4 per cent inflation, the benefit will be wiped out for anybody earning $10,000 a year or less. I have a wife and children," Proxmire predicted.

The heralded $97 billion budget of President Johnson still will be at least $4.9 billion from being balanced, Proxmire said.

While most of Wisconsin's top brass was in Madison Saturday for a "peace meeting" on picking a national convention delegates, Proxmire followed his famous lonewolf style of weekend campaigning with the emphasis on shaking hands.

He visited shopping centers in Neenah-Menasha during the day and shook hands with persons heading to the Saturday night Harlem Globe Trotters show at Veterans Memorial Arena. A reception at the Elks Club ended the day.

Proxmire dismissed the Democratic intra-party fight of the past weeks over delegate seats as unlikely to have any lasting effect for the fall campaign. Contests over party posts are healthy because it shows they have value, and district delegate elections had a fringe benefit of selling party memberships needed to vote, he said.

Proxmire said he was happy to see the Saturday meeting named Mrs. Shirley Cherkasky, Appleton, as a delegate since she is "one of the real outstanding people in the party."

Mrs. Cherkasky lost a bid for an Eighth District delegate post at a district caucus two weeks ago because of opposition attributed to Gov. John Reynolds. Proxmire said he had written a letter in behalf of Mrs. Cherkasky asking for her selection Saturday.

Week's Sessions Set for Neenah Committees

NEENAH — Various committee meetings have been scheduled for the City of Neenah this week, with the City Council meeting set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The street and sanitation committee will meet at 7 p.m. today.

The health and welfare committee will meet at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Libya Will Not

Renew Pacts

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—Libya says it does not intend to renew agreements permitting the United States and Britain to retain military bases on its soil. The U.S. agreement runs through 1971 and the British until 1973. The Libyan government issued its statement in reply to criticism from President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Nasser called in a speech for an end to foreign bases like those in Libya. They include the Wheelus Air Base, the last big American military installation in Africa, and British army and air force depots at Tripoli, Benghazi and El Adam.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

CAN WE EVER BECOME COMPLETELY HAPPY?
 YES ☐ NO ☐

No, say many of our greatest thinkers, including Schopenhauer, a better world is not impossible and Freud. We have within ourselves a number of conflicting wants, so that in making ourselves happy here, we make ourselves unhappy there. We can best get along by cutting down on that which makes for suffering and by learning to be content with a very imperfect world.

Will the recent health report greatly curtail cigarette smoking?

Yes — No —
 No, it may not. In England, when such a medical report first came out, cigarette smoking dropped considerably. But in time, smokers gradually came back to it. The main value of the recent American report may be to relieve social pressures. Many people do not want to smoke, but do so to be "social" or because they are afraid of being called "sissies." The report will make it easier to say no and will probably keep some people from getting the habit.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused: The word FAIL, in the sense of "to fall short," is an intransitive verb and does not take an object. Say, "He failed in his English course," but not, "He failed his English course."

Often Mispronounced: Salmon. Pronounce salmon, with the "l" silent.

Often Misspelled: Metal: one "l." Metallic: two "l's."

Synonyms: Artificial, affected, fictitious, pretended, simulated, unnatural, invented, fabricated, unmanufactured, assumed.

Word Study: Use a word three times and it is yours. Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's Word: BARBITURATE: one of a large group of drugs often used as sedatives, hypnotics, etc. (Pronounce bar-bit-yur-ait, principal accent on the second syllable). "We must guard against becoming addicted to the use of barbiturates."

Marinette Snaps Xavier Victory Streak at 49, Captures State Title

Ball Control and Sharp Defense Enable Cavaliers to Score 43-37 Success in Milwaukee

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

MILWAUKEE—Sunday night, the word "impossible" crept into Appleton Xavier High School's varsity sports vocabulary for the first time in 24 months.

The Hawks, who had defied the law of averages and a multitude of keyed-up foes in constructing monumental winning chains of 49 straight games in basketball and 67 straight in basketball and football combined, couldn't disprove this adage: "You don't beat a good team three times in one season."

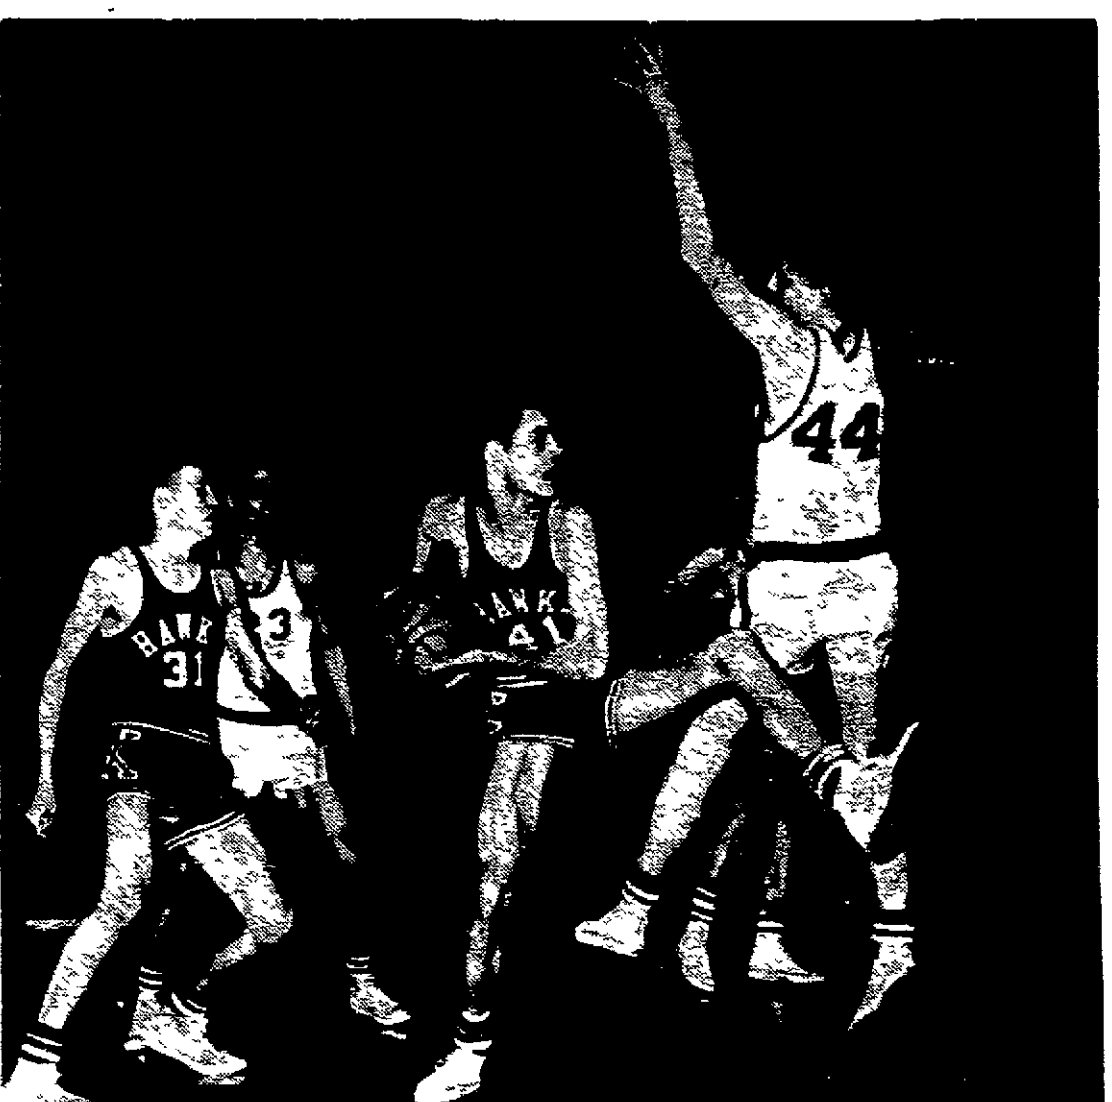

school and though the outcome was hard to take, it could hardly dim the luster of his record. It was only the fourth Hawk varsity defeat — all in basketball — in those 100 games.

Draw 20 Fools

Marinette has accounted for two of the losses in Clark's 69-4 basketball record for Xavier as a 4-year school. (The first defeat to the Cavaliers was by a 40-47 margin in 1961-62.)

With both teams scoring 15 baskets last night, the verdict

Ghosts Battle Rockets for Regional Semi-Finals Spot

M-E Rivals Will Meet Tuesday Night

BY TERRY GALVIN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Neenah Rockets will invade the new gym of the Kaukauna Ghosts in the Kaukauna Regional tourney opener at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The victor of the Rocket-Ghost clash will advance to the regional semi-finals Friday night along with Appleton, Menasha and Oshkosh.

A Kaukauna victory would pit the Ghosts against Oshkosh in action Friday, with Menasha and Appleton slated for the other game. Should Neenah emerge victorious, Appleton would meet them Friday with Oshkosh and Menasha squaring off.

Have Split

The Rockets and Ghosts have split in a pair of tests this season with Neenah emerging the conqueror on its own floor and Kaukauna, likewise. Neenah posted a 65-61 edge while the Ghosts rang up a 19-10 fourth period advantage in racking up a 63-62 victory at home Jan. 24 in the most recent meeting of the pair.

Coach Ole Jorgensen, having coached his 500th cage victory over Shawano recently, will be seeking his 501st basketball win. The Rockets finished Mid-Eastern loop action with a 5-9 mark, while the Ghosts were close behind with a 4-10 slate.

Neenah owns a 8-10 overall slate. Coach Ken VanderVelde's hosts are 6-12 on the campaign.

Both squads boast a second-team all-loop selection. Neenah's Gene Loughrin and Kaukauna's Gary Weigman were thusly honored.

The Ghosts, hosting their first regional tourney, are expected to open with Wayne Steinbach, Mike Andrews and Tim Versteegen in the front line. Gary Weigman, the team's sparkplug and leading point maker, will team with Bud O'Brien in backcourt roles.

Jorgensen is set with Dave Buchberger, Mike Boyd and Karl Pennau up front. Gene Loughrin and Tom Dieckrich round out the Rocket lineup. Buchberger is the top point-producer for Neenah, with Boyd a very close second.

St. Norbert Will Meet Lakeland '5'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lakeland has gone over the 100 point total for the ninth time this season in warming up for tonight's meeting with St. Norbert in the first round of the play-off to decide Wisconsin representative in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Basketball Tournament.

Lakeland, with a 12-10 record, and St. Norbert, 12-9, will meet in the Brown County Arena at Green Bay. The winner will play at La Crosse State Wednesday, with the victor moving on to NAIA tournament in Kansas City next week. La Crosse has posted a 19-1 record in winning the State College Conference title.

'Just Wasn't Our Night,' Xavier's Clark Says After Loss in Finals

'It Was No Fluke,' Hawks' Mentor Tells Marty Crowe

BY JIM HARP

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE—"It just wasn't our night, the offense didn't click," Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark of the Xavier Hawks said simply after the loss to Marinette Central Catholic Sunday night at the Milwaukee Arena.

A steady flow of well-wishers moved in and out of the subdued Xavier dressing room after the championship. Included among the visitors were school and city officials as well as parents of the players and Xavier graduates.

The Hawks quietly went about the routine of changing, showing ering and dressing for the return home.

"You deserved it, Marty," Coach Clark of the Hawks told the Marinette mentor when they met after the game. "It was no fluke," the Xavier coach added.

Coach Marty Crowe of Marinette had nothing but praise for Coach Clark and his cagers.

Immediately after the gun sounded ending the game, Xavier, led by all-star Bob Bleier, rushed over to congratulate the Cavaliers and their popular mentor. This display of sportsmanship touched Crowe to the point where he mentioned it in a radio interview after the game and again to members of the press later.

The Hawks always had one of the largest rooting sections behind them of any team in the tournament. Even in the semi-finals Saturday night, it appeared that there were more Xavier fans in the arena than from the "home" Milwaukee Marquette team.

"We used a 2-3 scramble zone defense to stop Rocky Bleier, although we gambled a lot on defense," Coach Crowe of Marinette said after the tilt. "We knew we had to stop Bleier. I consider him the best driver in the tournament."

New attendance records were set in the tournament again as a total of 26,483 saw the three days of action this year.

This mark is 2,745 above last year's total. A new single game attendance mark was reached Saturday night when 7,118 saw the two semi-final tilts.

Top individual scorer in the tourney was Jim Menzel, 63½ senior from Pacelli of Stevens Point.

Menzel counted 31 points in the battle for third place as Pacelli upset Marquette Sunday afternoon. This boosted Menzel's total for the tournament to 94, an average of just over 31 per game.

By 6 p.m. Sunday, an hour and a half before the championship game was to begin, stadium lights were on.

'Good Times' Are Predicted in 1964

Congressional Committee Warns Against Price Hikes And Excessive Budget Cuts

BY EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Economic Committee today predicted good times in 1964 as tax savings spread through the economy. But it cautioned that either prices hiked by private producers or excessive budget cuts by the government could spoil the picture.

And the Republican minority of the committee accused President Johnson's administration of unduly heating up the economy this election year, and thus risking a bust later.

The committee of senators, and House members sponsored its study of the President's annual economic report in two sharply contrasted sections. One with the Republican criticism running almost three times as long as the majority document.

Speeds Up Expansion

The Democratic majority found special encouragement in the timing of the tax cut enacted last week, saying it "will accelerate an existing expansion instead of being called upon to counteract recession."

The Democrats said Johnson has shown that economies can be made while still increasing spending on vital national needs, and they especially praised defense economies. But they also said "an increase in unemployment is too great a price to pay for balancing the budget."

The Republicans, accusing the administration of compiling "a dismal catalog of economic failures," said the economy was rebounding with the assistance of "the wise policies of the previous administration" when the Democrats took over in 1961 so that subsequent prosperity is largely vengeful.

Threat of Inflation

"In its anxiety to insure a particularly good economic performance in 1964, the Johnson administration offers an economic policy which, by its admission, will heat up the economy this year more than three times greater than in any other peacetime year," the Republicans said.

This policy, the minority charged, is "inviting inflation and other excesses," especially when 119 major collective bargaining contracts are up for renewal and unions are seeking substantial wage increases.

The Republicans concluded that "rather than cutting spending—as he claims to have done—the President is increasing expenditures but at a less rapid rate than in recent years."

Goldwater In Drive for First Primary

Henry Cabot Lodge Not on Ballot of The 'Granite State'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater headed for New Hampshire today to open a six-day, last-week drive for the state's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the Arizona senator's chief announced opponent, returns to the Granite State Tuesday night for a solid week of campaigning before the balloting March 10.

Magazine Poll

Meanwhile, a Newsweek magazine poll revealed that Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, might whip both Goldwater and Rockefeller—if his name were on the New Hampshire ballot.

Supporters have been seeking write-in votes for Lodge and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon since neither is an announced candidate.

It was disclosed Sunday that Lodge's backers had mailed out 96,000 sample ballots, showing how to vote for delegates favorable to Lodge and how the ambassador's name should be written in on the ballot's presidential preference section.

The New Hampshire ballot lists only Goldwater, Rockefeller, Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and Harold E. Stassen.

Over the weekend, Goldwater gained 48 first-ballot votes from Republicans in North Carolina and Oklahoma, which became the first states to complete their convention delegations.

Gov. Scranton said in an interview with The Associated Press that his Position Remains that he wants no national office but would not turn down "a sincere and honest draft."

But Scranton said for the first time he would not accept the GOP vice presidential nomination if it were offered to him.

Alabama Negro Seeks Office in Congress

JASPER, Ala. (AP) — For the first time since Reconstruction Day, a Negro is running for Congress from Alabama.

Mrs. Amelia P. Boynton of Selma qualified Saturday to oppose Rep. Kenneth Roberts of Anniston under the state's unique 9-8 elimination plan used to select Democratic nominees.

Alabama lost a congressional seat and was unable to reach agreement on redistricting. So each of the old nine districts nominates a candidate in the May 5 Democratic primary and the winners enter a runoff June 2 with the eight high candidates getting the nomination.

Mrs. Boynton, a native of Savannah, Ga., is an insurance agent in Selma.

More Talks on Malaysia to Open Tuesday

British Military Bases Denounced By Indonesian

BY KARSTEN PRAGER

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Another round of ministerial talks on the Malaysian dispute begins in Bangkok Tuesday with little hope of solution as Indonesia hurled new threats of extermination at Malaysia.

As the foreign ministers of Indonesia, the Philippines and Malaysia prepared to meet, the Indonesian Information Ministry said President Sukarno's government is still determined to wreck the young federation of former British colonies. But the statement added that the dispute should be settled peacefully.

Bases Denounced

Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, Indonesia's defense minister, denounced anew Britain's retention of military bases in Malaysia, whose Borneo border with Indonesia is guarded by British as well as Malaysian forces.

Charging that British bases bring "chaos and conflict" throughout Asia and the Middle East, Nasution said Asian bases should be manned by Asians.

He denied that Indonesia wants to seize Malaysian territory, saying: "Indonesia's only aim is to free the people there from imperialism."

More Troops

Malaysia ordered more troops to its Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah because of reported new clashes along the frontier. Malaysian officials said the situation along the 800-mile border with Indonesian Borneo was "rapidly deteriorating." They reported Indonesian-backed terrorists killed six persons over the weekend.

At the foreign ministers' meeting, Malaysia will demand that an estimated 200 anti-Malaysian guerrillas in Sarawak and Sabah be withdrawn or disarmed, and that the cease-fire negotiated by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in January be made effective.

Army Colonel, Wife Killed In Car Crash

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — A two-car collision Sunday night killed Col. John Nickerson, 49, Ft. Bliss, Tex., who in 1957 invoked the wrath of the Army by publicly criticizing its missile policy.

The crash 11 miles south of here on U.S. 54 also killed Mrs. Nickerson, 47, and injured the Nickersons' two sons, H.R. about 9, and Danny, about 12. Also in the car were Elmer and Terrell Adam White, 21, Paso, Tex., 16, a friend of the Nickersons; and the driver of the second car, Epi Grule, 47, San Antonio, N.M.

Nickerson became a sensation when he "leaked" information at Huntsville, Ala., charging the defense program was being jeopardized through limiting the Army to development and use of short-range missiles. He said the Army's Jupiter missile was far ahead of the similar Air Force weapon, although the intermediate-range missile was assigned to the Air Force.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of mishandling secret Army information and was fined $100 a month for 15 months and suspended in rank for a year.

In 1958 the Army restored his full security clearance and removed him from a "doghouse" assignment in the Panama canal zone.

He then was assigned to Ft. Bliss near El Paso.

Scranton Will Attempt To Steer Clear of Any GOP Nomination Tests

States He would Not Accept An Offer of Vice Presidency

BY JACK BELL

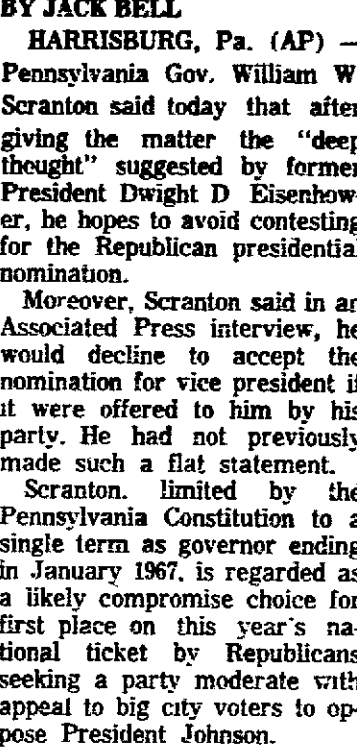

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton said today that after giving the matter the "deep thought" suggested by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, he hopes to avoid contesting for the Republican presidential nomination.

Moreover, Scranton said in an Associated Press interview, he would decline to accept the nomination for vice president if it were offered to him by his party. He had not previously made such a flat statement.

Scranton, limited by the Pennsylvania Constitution to a single term as governor ending in January 1967, is regarded as a likely compromise choice for first place on this year's national ticket by Republicans seeking a party moderate with appeal to big city voters to oppose President Johnson.

Bronx Boy Falls 5 Stories to Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a 15-year-old Bronx boy apparently tried to leap 15 feet between the roofs of two buildings and plunged five stories to his death.

An open tube of airplane glue, which has a narcotic effect when sniffed, was found on the roof from which Michael Vance apparently jumped, police reported. His body was discovered Sunday after a store between two tenements near his home.

Baraboo Hotel Damaged by Fire

BARABOO (AP) — Fire, smoke and water caused an estimated $69,000 damage to the three-story Warren Hotel in downtown Baraboo early Sunday.

Fire Chief Richard Romelfanger said six guests were in the 54-room hotel and that all escaped injury. D. J. Meyers, the owner, crawled through a smoke-filled hallway on his hands and knees to arouse the occupant of one room.

Romelfanger said the fire started in the basement about 3:15 a.m. and spread through walls to the third floor but did not break through the roof. The night clerk put in the alarm after seeing smoke in the lobby.

The dining room, the Circus Room and the Pine Room, all on the first floor, were heavily damaged.

Firemen were on the scene for five hours and kept the blaze from spreading to other buildings on Courthouse Square.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Two Associates of Billie Sol Estes Begin Prison Terms

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Two former associates of promoter Billie Sol Estes, himself bankrupt and under prison sentences, starting serving the time behind bars Sunday night.

It was the end of a fight stay free which began nearly two years ago for Coleman M. Spadden, 47, of Lubbock, Tex., and Ruel W. Alexander, 38, of Amarillo.

Along with Estes, they were arrested March 29, 1962, on charges of mail fraud, based on dealings in mortgages secured by non-existent farm fertilizers.

Estes, 39, under $140,000 in bonds, remains out of jail pending the outcome of appeal against state and federal prison terms totaling 23 years.

McSpadden drew 10 years in the penitentiary and Alexander six years on guilty pleas alone. With Harold E. Orr, 33, of Amarillo, also sentenced to 10 years, they were allowed to delay going to prison as long as they remained available to testify against Estes.

Orr was found dead Friday with the engine of a car running in a closed garage at his home. A doctor said carbon monoxide poisoning caused death.

Sugar Ramos Stops Seki in Sixth Round

Retains World Featherweight Championship

TOKYO (AP)—Sugar Ramos, with his second world featherweight title defense successfully under his belt, is looking around for new worlds to conquer—specifically, the lightweight world.

And it looks like he has some takers. "I'm ready to put up $300,000 to $400,000 to match Ramos and (lightweight champion) Carlos Ortiz in Los Angeles," promoter George Parnass said today adding the qualification, "providing Ortiz successfully defends his title against Kenny Lane in San Juan next month."

In Sixth Round All the comment came after Ramos, a Cuban exile now living in Mexico, stopped Japanese challenger Mitsunori Seki in the sixth round of their scheduled 15 round bout Sunday night.

The lanky Japanese had been cut over the eye and knocked down for mandatory eight counts twice in the sixth before his American advisor, Teddy Bentham, yelled for the referee to stop the bout. The time was 1:38 of the sixth.

Ramos, who weighed the maximum 126, started chasing the Japanese from the opening bell. He caught up with him in the fifth, opening a cut over Seki's left eye.

Then in the sixth he dropped Seki with a right to the jaw. The Japanese got up wobbly and glassy-eyed, but staggered on toward Ramos and was dropped again, almost immediately, with another whistling right hand. That did it. Seki's corner called for the end.

Bobcats Win, 6-5, in Overtime, Clinch Tie for Second Spot

Post-Crescent News Service ROCHESTER, Minn. — Their title hopes were quashed Saturday night, but Green Bay's Bobcats made certain nobody was going to push them out of second place in the 1963-64 U. S. Hockey League race by scoring a come-from-behind 6-5 overtime victory over the Rochester Mustangs Sunday afternoon.

Strapping Stu Anderson was the hero of the victory achieved before a turnout of 1,673 fans, as the Bobcats, already faced with a season record at 14-13 with three games — all against the Mustangs — left to play and assured Coach John Mayasich and Co. at least a tie for the runner-up spot behind league champion Waterloo. The Mustangs new 9-16, will retain slim hopes of deadlocking the Cats for second place, but to do so they would have to win twice at Waterloo next weekend, then sweep the final series of the season at Green Bay March 14-15. That finale at Brown County Arena now lists three games — the two regularly scheduled contests plus the completion of the protested Jan. 11 contest.

S. Hockey League race by scoring a come-from-behind 6-5 overtime victory over the Rochester Mustangs Sunday afternoon. Anderson ended Sunday's cliff-hanger by swinging behind the net.

The Bobcats, already faced with disabling injuries to Gordy Yewman and Gene Rebellato, contested all but a couple of minutes of Sunday's game without the services of Paul Coppo. The returning Olympian tripped on a stick and slammed into the boards on his first turn on the ice, injuring his shoulder. It was diagnosed as a bad strain, and he may be ready to go again two weeks hence.

'Just Not Our Night,' Clark Says After Loss

idents from both Xavier and Marinette jammed the lobby at the arena. Cheers echoed back and forth between the units and the roars were deafening when players from the two teams arrived and moved through the crowd to the dressing rooms.

Three records, all in the rebounding department, were recorded by the tall Pius XI squad in the 30 minutes. Pius had 10 rebounds in the consolation game against Edgewood of Madison for a new individual game mark. The old record was 26.

This was the fourth state championship in the 22-year coaching career of the Cavaliers' Marty Crowe.

Crowe won state crowns with Eau Claire teams in 1947 and 1948 and also had one while coaching in Minnesota. He described this one as the "most thrilling, because I didn't expect to get it."

Coach Crowe said it was the Marinette defense which was chiefly responsible for the win and singled out senior Sam Komp as the most valuable player in the championship.

Rebounding "was extremely close in the championship game with Marinette grabbing 26 and Xavier having 25. Both teams had 17 on defense while the Cavaliers took nine offensively to eight for the Hawks.

Xavier was credited with five assists in the final game while Marinette had seven.

Floyd Robinson May be Only Chisox Holdout

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Outfielder Floyd Robinson may be the only front-line holdout to day when the Chicago White Sox open their full squad spring drills.

Robinson, fighting a pay cut, is one of four White Sox unsigned. The others are pitchers Juan Pizarro and Joel Horlen, and infielder Charlie Smith. Pizarro pitched winter ball and doesn't have to report until March 15.

Field manager Al Lopez sent about 40 players through an informal drill Sunday.

was reached on the free throw line. The quick-moving and slick-passing Cavaliers drew 28 fouls — and sank 13 of 24 chances from the line. Xavier was fouled only 11 times and hit on seven of 13 free throws.

In the cautiously-played first quarter, Marinette dropped in only one of six free shots against the Xavier 2-1-2 zone defense, while the Hawks made three of nine against the Cavalier 2-3 zone. DeBruin's 10-footer in the final second of the period gave the Hawks a 9-7 lead.

Garvey connected from 25 feet out at the start of the second quarter, but Dan Noonan got the two points back on a drive-in. Timmers then sank a medium jump shot and "Rocky" Bleier poured in two free throws, giving Xavier a 15-9 lead with 6:15 left in the half.

This signalled the start of probably the longest dry spell in Xavier cage history. The Hawks went the rest of the first half and the first 2:37 of the second half — a total of 8 minutes, 52 seconds — without scoring a point.

After Komp scored from 15 feet away midway in the second period, the Hawks went into a half-court press that blanked the Cavaliers for more than three minutes.

However, on offense, the Hawks were futile. They were forced into mistakes by the swarming Cavaliers and turned over the ball without getting off a shot at least a half dozen times in the second period. In addition, three free throws — on 1-and-1 situations — also were missed.

Roland Ties It Don Anderson finally made two free throws for Marinette with 25 seconds left in the half to cut the deficit to 15-13. With five seconds left, Roland scored from underneath to tie the game.

With the third quarter 2:19 old, Komp hit from long range to put Marinette ahead, 17-15. Eighteen seconds later, Rankin drove in for a 2-pointer to end Xavier's long drought and to tie the count.

Roland's free throw made it 18-17. But Timmers scored on a leading drive shot with 5:08 remaining to give Xavier its final lead, 19-18. Roland's 3-point play put Marinette ahead, 21-19. Xavier's Paul Rechner hit from an angle, but Komp put his team back in front.

Bleier hooped a 15-footer to create a 23-23 tie with 3:15 left. Komp then scored on a lay-up to put the Cavaliers ahead for keeps. His effort touched off an 8-point spurge that gave Marinette a substantial lead (31-23) at the end of the quarter. Anderson, Komp and Noonan all added goals.

The Hawks, battling furiously in their championship tradition, came back on Timmers' fast break goal and Garvey's free throw to cut their deficit to five points early in the final period.

The Hawks began to apply the full-court press, but it had little effect on the snappy Cavaliers. They sprang Roland loose for a short goal and 33-26 lead. Rankin's rebound basket cut it to five, but Roland's hook shot and diminutive star Steve Lacoursiere's 3-point play padded the margin to 39-26.

DeBruin hit on a short jump shot but Rankin fouled out with 4:35 to go, and three other Hawks were in deep foul trouble. Five straight points — by Anderson, Roland and Komp — put Marinette out of reach, 43-30, with 3:30 left.

The Cavaliers froze the ball whenever they had the opportunity, but the battling Hawks shaved the final margin by scoring the game's last seven points — five of them by Timmers.

Marinette, which compiled a 20-5 record for the season, shot 47 per cent from the floor — 15 for 32. Xavier, which finished with a glossy 22-1 mark, shot at 39 per cent (15 for 38).

XAVIER 37 — DeBruin 3-4; Rankin 3-15; Timmers 6-11; Bleier 1-3-4; Garvey 1-1-4; Redmer 1-0-0; Rather 0-0-1; Spring 0-0-1; Busch 0-0-1 15-7-20.

MARINETTE 43 — Roland 5-2-3; Komp 6-4-1; Anderson 1-4-1; Lacoursiere 1-2-3; Bleier 2-0-1; Kehoe 0-1-2; 15-13-11 7-6-16 12-43.

Kotlarek Wins Ski Title at Pine Mountain

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP)—Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., outdrew the tournament hired gun, Italian Nilo Zandanel of Cortina, Sunday to win the National Kiwanis Ski-Jumping Championship on giant Pine Mountain Hill.

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 showed up in 50-degree weather to watch the small 26-year-old Zandanel attempt to set an American distance record.

He had sailed 472 feet for a world mark two weeks ago at Osterdorf, Germany, and was imported for this tournament to try to move the American record of 322 feet from Steamboat Springs, Colo., back to Pine Mountain.

Not Approached The Pine Mountain Hill record of 317 feet was not even approached as the sun blazed down and started melting the packed snow slide of the towering scaffold, slowing the take-off speeds. Despite the continuous doctoring of the chute with moisture absorbing chemicals, not even a 300-foot jump was recorded.

Kotlarek won with leaps of 298 and 294 feet. The 5-foot-6, 140-pound Zandanel, a customs apprentice officer, appeared to have missed his timing in take-off and the best he could do in three attempts was 284 and 288 feet.

Zandanel won the Pine Mountain classic in buffering wind Saturday with a best leap of 261 feet, while Kotlarek took fifth place.

But with zephyr-like breezes Sunday, he could not match the determined bid of Kotlarek. No Excuses Other than saying through an interpreter that the rather soft take-off prevented speeds necessary for a heralded 330 to 340-foot potential of the face-lifted hill, Zandanel had no excuses. In previous interviews, he said that he thought he could bail out at 340 given ideal weather and hill conditions. He now will return to Europe to complete a ski-jumping tour while Kotlarek remains the toast of Americans.

New London was plagued with a height disadvantage in their bid for the championship as Appleton controlled the backboards throughout the game. Appleton jumped off to an early lead and held a 8-7 advantage at the end of the first stanza.

But New London's Greg Wing, came on strong and at the end of the first half New London was leading, 21-18. In the first half, Wing scored 12 points. Midway through the third period a 2-pointer by Gary Depner gave St. Paul a 24-23 lead when it continued to increase for the remainder of the game.

Randy Rehfeldt of St. Paul, took game scoring honors with 18 points. Teammate Bob Arnold collected his fifth four early in the fourth quarter but had the German and Swiss champions scored 11 points. Depner had 13 points for Appleton.

New London's scoring laurel was turned in by Pete Langlois who went to Wing who finished of Bear Mountain, N.Y., who with 14 markers. Gary Slosarek leaped 232 feet. He placed seventh in Class A after two much shorter efforts. The 232-foot jump was a record on the recently remodeled hill here.

Black Hawks Trim Montreal

Ken Wharram Stars With Three Goals In 4-3 Decision

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Montreal held Bobby Hull scoreless Sunday but hurrying Ken Wharram hustled the Canadiens out of a clear-cut lead in the torrid National Hockey League pennant race.

The swift right wing, flanker for Stan Mikita on Chicago's scooter line, scored three goals, including the game-winner, in a 4-3 must victory over the Canadiens. It pulled the Black Hawks even, at 77 points, with the Habs in the first-place scramble.

Mikita was a deadly accomplice to Wharram's feat. The center set up each of Wharram's goals and scored the fourth — on a feed from Kenny. The hat trick gave Wharram 36 goals, one less than Hull. Mikita raised his league-leading point total to 80.

The deciding goal came with two minutes and 18 seconds left. Elsewhere, Boston's Dean Prentice accidentally scored on his own team, then fired his 20th goal to help the Bruins beat Toronto 5-3. Prentice hit the Boston net while attempting to clear the puck early in the second period. He atoned moments later to give the Bruins a 4-1 lead.

At New York, Detroit's Park MacDonald tallied late in the final period to salvage a 2-2 tie with the Rangers and further demoted the Red Wings' hold on fourth place and a spot in the Stanley Cup playoffs. Dick Duff scored both New York goals. Montreal blanked the Rangers 4-0, Boston nipped Detroit 2-1 and Toronto slugged Chicago 4-1 in Saturday night's games.

Balfanz Wins North American Jumping Title

BERLIN, N.H. (AP)—Olympian John Balfanz of Minneapolis, Minn., added another ski jumping title to his list Sunday, capturing the North American championship.

Balfanz had leaps of 224, 211 and 201 feet, piling up 230.5 points. Runner-up Doug Dion of the University of Wyoming had jumps of 203, 202 and 199 feet, compiling 219.4 points.

Balfanz won the national jumping title at Ishpeming, Mich., two weeks ago and won in the fourth quarter but had the German and Swiss champions scored 11 points. Depner had 13 points for Appleton.

The longest jump of the day was turned in by Pete Langlois who went to Wing who finished of Bear Mountain, N.Y., who with 14 markers. Gary Slosarek leaped 232 feet. He placed seventh in Class A after two much shorter efforts. The 232-foot jump was a record on the recently remodeled hill here.

Wichita Bids for Share of MV Title

UCLA Scores 24th Win in Row; Army Becomes NIT Entrant

National Invitation Tournament officials have nothing against the Wichita basketball team, but they're hoping the Wheatshockers go to the NCAA tournament.

That's why the NIT selectors will be rooting for the Shockers tonight in their Missouri Valley Conference game with North Texas State.

If that's confusing, consider the tournament situation from Wichita's standpoint. Under a conference penalty, fifth-ranked Wichita can play in the NCAA if it wins the MVC championship, but it can't play in the NIT under any circumstances.

To win the league title, the Shockers first must beat North Texas. That would put them into

Brave Hurlers Combine for No-Hit Victory

Kelley, Niekro, Maxie Shine in 1-0 Win Over MU

(AP) — Three rookie pitchers had the Milwaukee Braves management taking a second hard look today after combining for a no-hit baseball victory.

The efforts of left-hander Dick Kelley, Larry Maxie and Hal Niekro were required as the Milwaukee rookies took their second straight victory, a 1-0 decision over the University of Miami in a game here. The Braves pounded out a 12-3 victory in Saturday's game at Coral Gables.

Kelley walked two and struck out as many in the first three innings. Maxie fanned one and walked one in the next three. Niekro was best of all, retiring the collegians in order in the last three.

Held to seven hits by Miami's Elmer Harris, a senior right-hander, the Milwaukee rookies scored in the fourth on singles by Bill Ethridge, Glenn Clark and Jim Hart.

This also was the day for Milwaukee's veteran pitchers as nine catchers to report in uniform. The rest of the squad is due to begin training officially on Thursday.

A lot of the veterans, including Warren Spahn, arrived Saturday.

Missing from the ranks is catcher Joe Torre, who had until 10 a.m. today to sign a contract or become a holdout.

Braves president John McHale said "we are far apart on terms" and "I don't see any immediate possibility of coming to terms."

"I can't understand him," McHale said. "We gave him as big a raise as anyone on the club, actually one of the few we offered a raise. He seems to want everything in one year, and while we all admit he is a fine ballplayer, there simply has to be a limit."

"He hasn't been in contact with us lately and hasn't accepted our final contract. That's where it stands."

Hofstra Cager Breaks Gift Shot Conversion Mark

BETHLEHEM, Pa (AP) — Hofstra's Steve Nisenen has become the most accurate foul shooter in college basketball history.

He became the first collegiate player to shoot 90 per cent or better from the free throw line with a minimum of 200 successes.

Nisenen made 13 of 14 free throws Saturday night as Hofstra defeated Muhlenberg 82-70 for third place in the Middle Atlantic Conference college division tournament. This gave him a season's mark of 207 for 226 or 91.5 per cent.

Titans Battle Pointers for Second Place

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three teams are tied for second place going into tonight's final basketball action of the season for the Wisconsin State College Conference.

La Crosse, which wound up its season Saturday night with a 90-77 victory over River Falls for an 11-1 mark, clinched the title earlier.

Tied at seven victories and four losses each are Oshkosh, Stevens Point and Superior. Stevens Point clashes with Oshkosh tonight while Superior takes on Eau Claire, the conference tailender with a 2-9 margin.

In Saturday's other games, Oshkosh beat Platteville 103-101. Stevens Point defeated Whitewater 86-83 and Superior downed Stout 107-98.

Kaukauna JV '5' Tips Two Rivers

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna junior varsity closed out its basketball season with a 59-42 win over Two Rivers here Friday night.

The losers jumped off to a 14-11 lead at the end of the first period, but then dropped behind, 24-22, at the halfway mark. Kaukauna continued to widen the gap in the third frame scoring 17 points to nine for the invaders and then won going away in the final period.

Jack Capen and Bob Arnold each had 12 for the winners while Bob Main and Gary Reimer chipped in 11 as the entire squad saw action. Jaekel and Kroch topped the losers with nine each.

KAUKAUNA (11-13-17-18) Collins 0-14; Capen 5-21; Lamers 1-0-0; Reimer 1-11; Main 1-6-0; Esten 1-12-2; Nissen 6-12-2; Pendleton 0-4-0; Main 5-12-2; Promer 1-0-2; Arnold 5-2-4, 24-11-35.

Lakers Romp Over St. Louis; Warriors Win

West, Baylor Lead LA With 68 Points; Chamberlain Nets 38

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers have regained their National Basketball Association touch, but their Western Division title appears certain to pass into the hot hands of San Francisco's Warriors.

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor clicked for 68 points between them as the Lakers manhandled St. Louis 114-91 Sunday night and virtually locked up a sectional playoff berth.

But the Lakers failed to gain ground on the Warriors, who crushed Detroit 100-86 and stretched their Western lead to 3½ games over second-place St. Louis.

Boston and Cincinnati, running one-two in the Eastern race, matched victories in matinee games. The Celtics topped Philadelphia 108-93 and the Royals edged Baltimore 122-111.

Driver Killed When Car Hits Retaining Wall

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A 27-year-old race driver from Chicago was killed Sunday when his car smashed into a retaining wall and overturned several times at Phoenix International Raceway.

Maricopa County sheriff's deputies said a drag racer driven by Robert Snyder, 27, of Chicago, went out of control when the parachute used to stop the vehicle failed to open.

Deputies said Snyder apparently was killed when his head struck the ground as the car overturned. He was dead on arrival at a Phoenix hospital.

The car was traveling an estimated 185 miles per hour when it went out of control. Deputies said Snyder applied the brakes but only slowed the vehicle to about 130 mph before it struck the wall.

Snyder is survived by his widow, Lynn, and two children.

Pius XI Cops Consolation Pacelli Rallies to Defeat Marquette for Third Place

MILWAUKEE (AP) — In the State Catholic basketball tournament, Sunday, Pacelli rallied behind the sharp-shooting of Jim Menzel in the fourth quarter to defeat Milwaukee Marquette 64-56 for third place in the tournament, while Milwaukee Pius XI went on a record-shattering rebound spree to trounce Madison Edgewood 82-51 for the consolation championship.

Menzel, a 6-foot-3½ senior who set a Central Wisconsin record for three days, finished with 31 points in the final as Pacelli outgunned Marquette 21-9. Marquette led 20-14, 31-28 and 47-43 at the quarter marks before fading.

Menzel was the tournament's top scorer with 33 points in three games as Pacelli finished its campaign with a 14-10 record. He also had 19 rebounds against Marquette, raising his total to 47 for three days.

Marquette, which ended with an 18-5 record, was led by Chuck Naele with 18 points. Joe Larkin with 16 and Mike Curtin with 10.

Pius was paced by Ron Hayek, a kangaroo-like 6-foot-2½ senior who scored 36 points and grabbed 27 rebounds. His work under the boards set a single game rebound record, bettering the mark of 26 set by Dennis Dvoracek of Eau Claire Regis in 1962.

Rudolph Leads in New Orleans

Boasts 208 Total After Third Round; Four Shots Ahead

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mason Rudolph goes into today's final round of the $50,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament with a four-stroke advantage over big Jack Nicklaus.

Tied for the lead the first day, Rudolph took sole possession of first place the second day and kept it Sunday. His 54-hole score was 68-71-70—208.

Nicklaus, who rates the Lakewood Country Club course, at 7,020 yards, as one of the six toughest on the PGA tour, carded an erratic 72 Sunday.

Wes Ellis Jr. stood one stroke behind Nicklaus with a 213 after shaving five strokes off par Sunday with a 67—best round of the tournament.

Arnold Palmer, nearing the half-million dollar mark in winnings, scrambled to a 72 with what he called a very miserable round.

Palmer was tied at 219 with Julius Boros, U.S. Open champion, who will turn 44 Tuesday.

South African Gary Player, three-putted three greens and ballooned to a 74 for a 223—barely surviving the cut for the final 18 holes.

Manawa Kegler Hits 712 in K of C Meet; Waupaca Pair High

MARSHFIELD (AP)—O. Hoffman of Manawa took over first place in singles with a 712 to place a realignment of leaders in the Wisconsin Knights of Columbus Bowling Tournament Sunday. Wiskerchen Cheese of Audubon is the new team leader with 3,096 and the Rev. R. Paaloon to a 74 for a 223—barely surviving the cut for the final 18 holes.

Waupaca set a new pace of 1,344 in doubles.

Canadian Warship Rescues 34 From Stormy Atlantic

Gale Shatters Greek Tanker;
2 Members of Crew Perish

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Thirty-four survivors of the broken 300-foot bow section of the 630-Greek tanker Amphialos arrived in Halifax early today aboard a Canadian warship after a dramatic rescue from the stormy North Atlantic.

Two members of the 36-man Greek crew perished after the 15,800-ton tanker split in two under the battering of gale winds and 20-foot waves off the Nova Scotia coast Saturday. Five of the survivors were taken to a hospital on stretchers.

Capt. Stamatis Polemis, the Amphialos' skipper, said he and his men clung for hours to a rail of the stern section until they were picked up Sunday afternoon by the Canadian destroyer escort Athabaskan. A foot ship floated away and sank. The survivors were wrapped in navy blankets as they left the Canadian warship. Most appeared cheerful but tired. They shook hands with the Canadian sailors and in broken English expressed their gratitude.

Asked to confirm the number of men aboard his ship, Polemis said briskly, "We had 36. Now we have 34."

The rescue followed a chance observation by a Canadian air force plane during a training mission. The pilot, Lt. Laurie Friesen, spotted an oil slick about 220 miles southeast of Halifax—presumably from the sunken bow.

"A couple of minutes later we saw two ships," Friesen said. "The nearest was a navy ship—Athabaskan—and about eight miles away was another ship. The second vessel looked different from a normal ship."

Cling to Rails

As he swooped down, he made out the stern of a ship sticking out of the water.

"There were men clinging to the rails," Friesen said. "They began waving frantically."

Friesen radioed the Athabaskan. The warship's presence in the area was pure chance. The Canadian navy said no distress signal had been received from the stricken tanker.

The Athabaskan's skipper, Cmdr. Peter R. Hinton of Victoria, said a lookout spotted the floating stern a few minutes after the plane's report. Two lifeboats bobbed in the sea.

Hinton said most of the men in the lifeboats were too weak to climb nets hung over the Athabaskan's side. Canadian sailors scrambled down and aided them aboard.

Elderly Woman Dies After Boys Knock Her Down

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Police investigating the death of an 81-year-old widow who was knocked down in an attempted purse snatching, continued their search today for three boys believed to be between 6 and 8 years old.

Mrs. Anna M. Ratz died Saturday night about 12 hours after she was knocked down as she walked past a vacant lot near her home. A medical examiner's report said she died of a heart attack.

The woman's son, John, said that when Mrs. Ratz refused to give up her purse, the three boys fled. Mrs. Ratz continued on her shopping trip but returned home when she began to experience chest pains.

She refused hospitalization and died about an hour after a second visit by a physician.

Air Searchers Find Wreck Of Plane; 85 Aboard Dead

Alps Crash Dead Being Removed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Helicopters took Austrian rescue teams to an Alpine ravine today to begin the grim job of removing the bodies of 83 victims from the wreckage of a British airliner which crashed Sunday.

It was one of two crashes Sunday and the third major commercial air crash in five days.

A U.S. Air Force search plane spotted the blackened tail of the four-engine Bristol Britannia Sunday between two peaks.

Crashed Into Mountain

Austrian officials said the airliner, trying to land through fog at Innsbruck Airport, slammed into 8,800-foot Mt. Gamslahner Spitz southeast of the resort where the 1964 Winter Olympics were held.

The big Turboprop plane, its fuel tanks still nearly half full, apparently struck the mountain at full speed and exploded. Debris and bodies were strewn over a 2,000-yard area in the gully between Gamslahner and Glungezer peaks.

The 75 passengers included 73 Britons bound for a skiing holiday, an Austrian and a Canadian. The airline, International Eagle, said there were 18 married couples aboard and at least five children. The plane carried a crew of eight.

Parts of Bodies in Debris

"It is horrible," said an Alpine rescue service member. "Arms, legs and heads are strewn about in the debris. I don't see how we could ever identify the victims."

Tape-recorded messages between the pilot, 40-year-old Capt. E. Williams, and the Innsbruck Control Tower roused suspicions that the plane's altimeters were defective. Williams gave his altitude as 10,900 feet, which would have been well above the peaks.

Texas Districting Law Ruled Invalid

U. S. Supreme Court Leaves
Way Open for Further Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court affirmed today a decision that Texas statutes establishing the state's 23 congressional districts are unconstitutional.

The high court said its decision was without prejudice to the right of state officials to apply, by April 1, to the U.S. District Court in Houston for further equitable relief in light of present circumstances.

The circumstances, the Supreme Court said, include "the coincidence, on Texas' Independence Day, on March 2, 1836, Texas proclaimed freedom from Mexico."

The Supreme Court's unsigned order in the Texas case was followed by a notation that Justice Tom C. Clark, a Texan, joined in today's action. "But upon the grounds stated in his separate opinion" in the Supreme Court's decision two weeks ago in a congressional districting case in Georgia.

The court said in that case that congressional districts must represent the same number of voters, so far as is practicable.

Flier's Shout Seen as Cause Of His Death

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Professional parachutist Richard Welsh shouted his familiar "Yeow" an instant after he leaped from a plane at 3,000 feet Sunday.

Moments later, he lay dead on the ground below. His parachute had failed to open. The shout conceivably might have brought his fate.

Frank Judge, a flier; David Monroe, pilot of the plane and Robert McDonald, a "chute jumper," agreed Welsh lacked a pocket for his ripcord handle, called a "D-ring."

"The ring was supposed to be in a little pocket of his rig," Judge said. "but Welsh had no pocket, so he held the handle in his mouth."

"When he yelled, the D-ring flew out of his mouth and over his shoulder," Judge said. Welsh, dead when witnesses reached him, had made the jump on his 29th birthday.

"He of all people," said Monroe, referring to Welsh holding the D-ring in his teeth, "should have known that was very, very wrong."

Constellation Hit Peak East of Lake Tahoe After Vanishing in Snowstorm

TAHOE VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Air searchers found the wreckage today of a four-engine plane where it crashed into a Sierra peak, east of Lake Tahoe, killing all 85 persons aboard.

A doctor, taken by helicopter to the remote scene at the 8,800 foot level of a snowy mountain, confirmed there were no survivors.

The Paradise Airlines Constellation vanished in a snowstorm Sunday while carrying 81 passengers to Nevada's casinos and ski resorts on a flight from San Jose, Calif.

Lt. Col. Alexander S. Sherry, deputy commander of the Western Air Rescue Center, Hamilton Air Force Base, told an airport news conference the wreckage was spotted west of the hamlet of Genoa, Nev.

Just before the conference, a helicopter pilot told the Associated Press the wreckage was found 200 feet below the top of a rugged peak towering among those which rise up to 10,000 feet or more in the ski and gambling playground around Lake Tahoe.

The mountain where California's biggest air tragedy occurred is named Genoa Peak.

The spotting helicopter was one of 17 which flew out today over the rugged wilderness scene near the site of the 1960 Squaw Valley Winter Olympics.

It was the third major commercial air crash in five days. The plane, loaded to capacity, vanished about noon Sunday. Veteran pilot Henry Norris, 43, had just radioed that he was starting his 27-mile approach down 23-mile long Lake Tahoe to the airport in Tahoe Valley.

It was the first disaster in the two-year-old Paradise Airlines' operation.

The four-engine propeller-driven Constellation may have plunged into the huge lake.

Norris possibly turned and crashed into the mountains. The scene is only a few miles from Squaw Valley, scene of the 1960 Winter Olympics.

In Washington, the Civil Aeronautics Board said it was sending three investigators, headed

Man Rescues Badly Injured Wife After Fighter Crashes Into Home

SUPERIOR (AP)—Lawrence Nordlund watched in horror Sunday as a disabled Air Force jet fighter plane plummeted out of the sky, bounced along a highway and sliced through his home where Mrs. Nordlund was working in the kitchen.

The house and plane, which crashed in a valley beyond, upper portion of his two-story house, located near the community of Middle River, about 17 miles south of Superior, was severely injured. The basement and carried her out in extreme northern Wisconsin before the house was consumed.

Pilot Killed

Capt. Kenneth C. Hite, 33, pilot of the F106B fighter interceptor what sounded like a shot, looked out of the window and saw the Nordlund L. Bastian, 45, the deputy base commander, was burned slightly but parachuted safely.

Mrs. Nordlund was in fair condition early today in a Superior hospital. She suffered fractures and first and second degree burns. Bastian, who also was deputy commander of the 343rd Fighter Group, was burned on the back of the neck. He was treated at a hospital here then moved to the base.

A base spokesman said both Hite, a test pilot, and Bastian, Hite and Bastian were on a flight to Tyndall Air Force Base in Florida. The cause of the crash was not known.

Hite, a native of Shelbyville, Ky., is survived by his widow, June, and three children, Sharon, 6; Richard, 4; and Robert, 2. His family made its home at the Duluth base, as did Bastian, a native of Scranton, Pa.

Hoffa Accused Of Attack on Jury System

Among Worst in Country's History,
Prosecutor Says

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa's chief prosecutor argued today that Hoffa took part in "one of the greatest attacks on the jury system this country has ever known."

James Neal, chief prosecutor at the Teamsters president's jury-tampering trial, opened final arguments as the trial began its seventh week before U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson.

Hoffa and five others are accused of trying to bribe and corrupt the jury that heard Hoffa's 1962 trial in Nashville on a conspiracy charge. That jury never agreed on a verdict.

"It's unthinkable to punish the innocent," Neal told the jury of eight men and four women. "But it is cruelty to the innocent not to punish the guilty. Persons who seek to influence jurors are poisoning the very foundation of justice."

Tampering Crime

"Attempts to tamper with juries are infrequently and rarely successful," asserted the young prosecutor from Washington. "Even an effort to tamper with a jury is a crime. If the effort is successful, it only aggravates the crime."

Wilson allotted each side five hours of closing arguments, and the jury—which has been locked up since the trial began Jan. 20—is expected to begin its deliberations by tomorrow night.

Neal devoted much of his argument to Edward G. Partin, a Baton Rouge, La. Teamsters official who testified for six days against Hoffa and others on trial. He was the only prosecution witness to link Hoffa with alleged efforts to fix the Nashville jury.

"They (the defense) tried to blacken Partin with all the rumors, slanderous rumors, by disgruntled members of his local," Neal said. "But these rumors all fell flat."

$100,000 Reward for Dynamiters of Train

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Association of American Railroads today offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of dynamiters who wrecked a Florida East Coast Railway train Feb. 26.

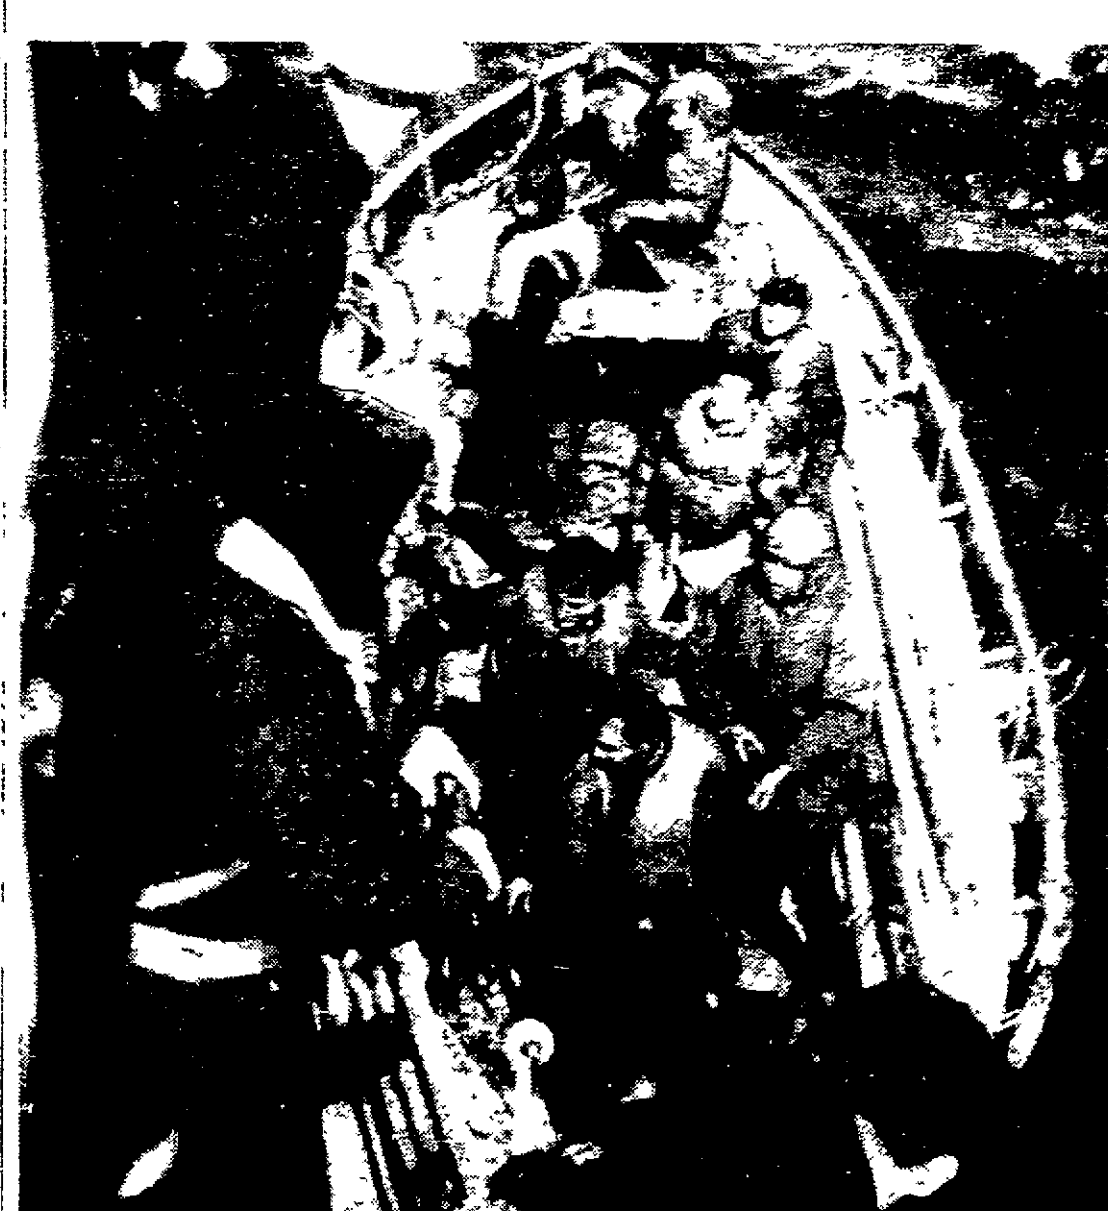

The offer was disclosed in telegrams the association sent to President Johnson and Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida.

Daniel P. Loomis, association president, said the organization's board of directors authorized the reward.

The telegrams praised Johnson for ordering the FBI to investigate the dynamite attacks on the strikebound Florida East Coast line. The Feb. 26 explosion was the fifth in less than three weeks.

3 Persons Die on State Highways During Weekend

Highway crashes in Wisconsin claimed three lives during the weekend, and with the death of a woman injured earlier, the state's highway toll for 1964 reached 146. The total on this date a year ago was 91.

Robert Gulickson, 33, of West Salem, died early Sunday when his car struck a bridge support on a county road about 12 miles east of La Crosse.

Mrs. Rose Captain, 50, of Oak Creek, died in a hospital in Milwaukee Saturday night of injuries received last Wednesday in a two-car crash at an intersection in Watwatosa.

Weekend victims listed earlier were Roger Rusitzky and Marvin Parkila, both 22, and both living in Racine, who were killed when their car hit a tree in Kenosha County.

Chamber to Handle Ticket Sales, Be in Charge of Displays

CHILTON — Ticket sales for the upcoming music festival at the high school will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the chamber board decided Thursday.

Marvin Hoffman, band director, told directors on April 18 and May 9, 2,000 students will come to the city for the Eastern Wisconsin Music Association festival.

Six hundred students from 13 schools will attend the April 18 solo ensemble, and 2,000 students will be in the city May 9 for the 13-school band and chorus tournament, he said.

Open to Public
The two tournaments are open to the public. The chamber will promote advance ticket sales.

In addition to ticket promotion, the chamber will promote the tournaments through window signs and displays advertising the events as well as welcome signs to visiting students.

Robert Mand was appointed chairman of a committee to head promotions.

Dale-Medina Scouts, Leaders Honored at Blue-Gold Banquet

CHILTON — A total of $2,520 was included in an approved 1964 budget for the chamber of commerce Thursday evening.

The board of directors unanimously approved the proposal presented by the finance committee.

A breakdown of the budget shows $150 allocated for the annual Christmas party, $60 for home decorating contest, 4-H achievement night, $50, scholarship recognition banquet, $200, retail, $600; salary and services, $960, advertising, $300, annual banquet, $100, and miscellaneous, $100.

The budget is approximately the same as last year, directors were told.

Grant 10-Day Delay On Retrial Motion

Waupun Prisoner Says Court Erred in Forgery Case

A former Hortonville man now a prisoner in Waupun State Prison will have to wait 10 days to resume his fight to win a retrial on two forgery charges which have netted him up to four years in the prison.

Cornelius Van Voorhis, 34, Friday presented his motion before County Judge Gustave Keller asking that he be retried on the March, 1963, charges that he forged $92 in two worthless checks by placing the name of a dead man on the checks. Van Voorhis had found the pre-signed checks in the city dump at Neenah and had passed one in Calumet County and one in Outagamie County.

Van Voorhis petition that he was not granted proper counsel when he was sentenced in April, 1963, to Waupun State Prison, has been held up while Van Voorhis' attorneys study affidavits presented Friday by Asst. Dist. Atty. James Bayorgeon.

Not "Innocent Lamb"
Bayorgeon, in his statement to the court, said that Van Voorhis was not "an innocent lamb" in court proceedings, that statements contained in the Van Voorhis affidavit that he was never in his life informed that he could have free counsel "is a deliberate lie."

Bayorgeon cited several cases involving Van Voorhis in felonies in Wood and Shawano counties in 1958 and 1959 in which court records show Van Voorhis asked for and was granted county-paid counsel.

Edwin Bollenbeck, Van Voorhis' attorney, said the petition for the retrial concerned issues which had come before the court "and is not related to incidents of other courts." Bollenbeck asked for the 10-day delay on the motion in order to study Bayorgeon's affidavits.

Says Judge Erred
Van Voorhis' motion declares that County Judge Gustave Keller "inadvertently erred" in failing to fully advise Van Voorhis of his right to legal counsel "provided for him as an indigent." The motion states the court erred in failing to appoint a legal counsel for the defendant "even though not requested specifically by the defendant, as a necessary prerequisite to due process of law."

Bayorgeon in his statement said Van Voorhis "and other jail house lawyers" are perhaps more aware of their constitutional rights "than are most practicing attorneys."

He said the supreme court recognizes that individuals "who have had more than a minor acquaintance with the law" and have had opportunities to exercise their rights, are to be considered differently than those individuals who have had only minor experiences in the courts.

The Bud Leonard Rink, Madison, won the third event with a 9-6 win over Norman Barrington, Waupaca, and the Smith County Half Moon Lake, Eau Claire, and the Clintonville, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Smith and County Treasurer and Mrs. John DeVaud, won the fourth event, 9-3, over the Joe Schulenberg Rink, Appleton.

Lenten Breakfast Set At Clintonville Church
CLINTONVILLE — A Men's Lenten breakfast and discussion will be from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Fellowship hall of First Methodist Church. William Hanson will be the discussion leader.

Regents Want No Outside Advice

State College Unit Replies to Reynolds' Criticism on Change

CHILTON — The board of state college regents intends to run its affairs without outside interference from anyone, including the governor.

That was the plain meaning of a statement adopted here Friday by managers of the state of Wisconsin state college at Madison.

The provocation for the quarrel was action of the state college board a month ago in rejecting its staff representatives to the coordinating committee without advance notice of its intentions to the committee or to Regent.

The board reply Friday recalled that the university had made its own several appointments to the coordinating committee without advance notice of its intentions to the committee or to Regent.

Chilton Chamber Investigates Promotion of Farm Museum

Proposed Hiawatha Trail Route Prompts Action by Businessmen

CHILTON — The chamber of four-state the governor's commerce has appointed a conference recently in conjunction with the Hiawatha Pioneer Trail.

The action was prompted on the conference, Chilton when plans for the proposed said Calumet county was on Hiawatha Pioneer Trail were the proposed route for the Trail.

As now planned the trail would travel through Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa.

Each state, Flanagan explained, is allotted 500 miles. In Wisconsin, the route would start at the southwest corner of the state. From that point it would travel northeast to Appleton. At Appleton the route would turn southeast around Lake Winnebago and south toward Chicago.

The Chamber contends that the museum could be a draw for the many tourists traveling the route.

Presently it is in a building behind Dr. Kiofanda's house in Chilton. The Chamber contends that the museum could be a draw for the many tourists traveling the route.

Secretary F. J. (Pat) Flanagan was delegated to attend on committee.

Trash Burner Flame Spreads, Levels Barn Near Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — A fire started by a garbage burner caused $15,000 damage to buildings on the Orville Marohn farm, 113 Knott Road in the Town of Utica Friday afternoon.

The Winnebago County sheriff's office received a call at 1:13 p.m. Friday about the fire, which the Omro and Town of Algoma fire departments were sent.

The fire in the garbage burner ignited the grass around it and spread to the chicken coop, granary and barn, which contained a self-propelled combine, hay and fertilizer.

Firemen saved a large new building only eight feet away from the burning barn. Marohn estimated damage at $15,000, part of which was covered by insurance.

AVS Offers 6 Session Course on Small Engine Maintenance, Repair

The Appleton Vocational and Adult School is sponsoring a special class in small engines as a night school program to satisfy numerous requests for a class on service, maintenance and repair of small engines such as these on power lawn mowers, wash machines and tillers.

The course, starting March 17, is designed to give the student a general plan of service and adjustment to maintain good motor operation. The course consists of six two-hour meetings and covers maintenance and adjustment of two cycle and four cycle gasoline motors.

Service manuals from representative companies are used as basic texts in a study and guide to service. New motors by Briggs and Stratton are used in demonstration while used motors in need of actual repair and service are used in the performance of service repair and adjustment.

Registration is open now at the Appleton Vocational and Adult School.

Classes will begin, Tuesday, March 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. and meet Tuesdays and Thursdays for three weeks.

Iola Cubs Chartered, Receive Bobcat Pins

IOLA — Charter presentation and Bobcat pin awards highlighted a Pack meeting of the newly organized Cub Scout Pack 131 Friday in Iola Methodist Church.

Cub Scouting and its program were briefly outlined by Cubmaster Ed Rochette and Charles Johnson, Boy Scout District representative, as an introduction to Iola's first Pack meeting.

Rev. Larry Winebrenner, representing the sponsoring organization the Iola Methodist Church, accepted the pack charter.

Patriotic skits entitled "General Washington Crossing the Delaware" and "Battle of Iwo Jima" were given by the two dens.

Den 2, under the leadership of Mrs. Ed Rochette, was awarded the attendance banner. The banner was given in recognition of the Cub's efforts to invite guests and introduce the program to Iola residents. The winning den had 36 guests.

Receiving Bobcat pin and registration cards were Bradley Crase, Steven Nassen, Wayne Anderson, John Peterson, Randall Hoffman, Greg Halferman, Joey Sprangers, Jackie Rosholt, Michael Sprangers, Dennis Van De Yacht, Daniel Cornelius, Lee Solberg, Curtis Flaata, Richard Wood and Philip Rochette. Leaders of the organization honored were Cubmaster Ed Rochette, Richard Anderson, Joe Sprangers and Bernard Cornelius, pack committee members, and Mrs. Richard Anderson and Mrs. Ed Rochette den mothers.

Mardi Gras will be the theme for March pack meeting.

Second Straight Year

Wittenberg Wrestlers Win CW League Title

WITTENBERG — The Wittenberg high school wrestling squad, holding its initial meet in 1956, is completing its second straight year as champion of the Central Wisconsin conference.

The Wildcats, led by four seniors, entering the regional wrestling tourney at Amherst Saturday and plan to compete in the sectional meet at Green Bay March 6 and 7. Seniors on the squad include Robert Rozmarynowski, 145 pounds; Allen Ostrowski, 165; Dallas White, 180, and Bill Kassube, heavyweight.

Don Herrman was the first coach for the wrestlers in the 1956 season. Although backed by much enthusiasm and 25 turnouts for team positions, the Wildcats were hampered by inexperience and lack of entrants in all weight divisions the first year.

Bill Donahue, now coach at Eau Claire Regis, was coach in 1957 and in 1959-60. In 1960, the Wildcats won first place in the Menominee invitational tourney and the WIAA regional meet.

They placed second in the D. C. Everest invitational tournament at Schofield.

Boyd Gibbs coached the youths to 6-4 and 5-5 records in 1961 and 1962, although most of the competition was against larger schools with experienced wrestlers. After the 1962 season, Wittenberg joined the Central Wisconsin conference. The Wildcats won the league title in 1963 and have repeated this year.

Wittenberg has produced two state champions. In 1959, Joe Groshek won the 165 pound title and, in 1961, Ronald Bessette captured the 112 pound crown.

Brillion Board Modifies School Insurance Form

BRILLION — The Brillion public school system will change the school fire and extended coverage insurance to the public and institutional property form.

This will subject all losses to a $100 deductible clause and will provide for coverage on a replacement cost rather than on a depreciated value. Savings in premium expenses will result.

The board ruled correspondence study was not acceptable for qualifying a teacher for professional improvement. The resignation of Mrs. Kenlynn Akin, kindergarten teacher at the Forest Junction school, was read.

2 Grass Fires At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Clintonville Volunteer fire department was called out within minutes of each other about 4:30 p.m. Saturday to extinguish fires burning along the sides of the tracks on railroad property. Alarms were turned in a short time after a train had passed.

The rural department was called to fight a fire burning south of Highway 1 along the tracks, and the city department was called to E. Madison Street for a similar fire. Firemen reported some fence posts and telephone poles burned before the fires were brought under control.

FACSIMILE BALLOT NOTICE

PRIMARY ELECTION

STATE OF WISCONSIN }
COUNTY OF OUTAGAMIE } ss Office of County Clerk

To the Electors of Outagamie County:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an election is to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election precincts in the County of Outagamie on the 10th day of March, 1964, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column, in the sample ballot below.

Information to Voters

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters.

A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which must have indorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking his ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

At a nonpartisan primary election, the voter shall place a cross or other mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, or by inserting or writing in the name of any other candidate.

The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed indorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is visually handicapped, he may have anyone assist him in marking his ballot or operating a voting machine. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability.

The following is a facsimile of the official ballot:

Recreation Program Threatened

Governor Reynolds has announced that he will veto the compromise bill worked out recently to extend the state's acquisition program for outdoor areas. Presumably the bill will be adopted at the April session of the legislature.

Such a veto could well threaten the continuation of the program. If the extension measure does not become law authority to continue such land purchases will expire June 30.

The reasons the governor has given for opposing the bill as now drawn are so obviously political and personally selfish that he stands no chance of persuading the Republican-controlled legislature to accept his point of view.

He is fighting for his position as chairman of the State Recreation Committee which now controls the purchases of these lands. Under the proposed bill, this committee would be abolished and the control over land purchases would be given to the Conservation Commission.

Assembly Majority Leader Paul Alfonsi has been fighting for some time to abolish the recreation committee, and his point of view prevailed with the conference committee.

Reynolds says he is not going to let this authority be turned over to the Conservation Commission because a majority of the commissioners do not do his bidding. Four of the six members are Democratic appointees, but the two appointed by former Governor Nelson more often side with the two holdover Republican appointees than with Reynolds. And Reynolds has been unsuccessful in replacing the two Republicans with men of his own choosing.

In practical political terms, the state's land acquisition program initiated so successfully by Governor Nelson is now caught in the middle in the struggle for control of the Democratic party between Reynolds and Nelson.

And just as Nelson's most lasting impression on state voters as governor resulted from initiation of the land acquisition program, Reynolds may go down in the records as the governor who killed it.

The Dutch Royal Romance

Doubtless in this Valley where so many of our neighbors trace their family origins to Dutch progenitors, the story of the courtship of Princess Irene of the royal house of the Netherlands by a scion of one of the noble families of Spain has an especially sentimental echo.

The renunciation of her rights to succession to the throne and her conversion to the faith of her Spanish suitor provided the classic elements of the romantic story.

But we may suppose that our sturdy neighbors descended from Dutch immigrants have also reflected upon the happy contrast between the constitutional arrangements and the institutional rules of politics in the country of their ancestral ties, and their own free America.

The little Dutch girl's proposed marriage to a Spaniard of another faith nearly precipitated a political crisis in her country. The Protestant allegiance of the royal family is one of the fixed rules of the Dutch political system. For a member of the family to adopt the Roman Catholic faith could not be accommodated constitutionally, on the one hand, or politically, on the other. For the princess' intended is a Spaniard, and in the proud Netherlands there are long memories of the struggle for independence against the Spanish tyrant that became one of the adornments of the modern history of Europe.

It was the founder of the House of Orange who led the long and bloody war against the Spanish occupation four centuries ago, when national wars were based upon religious rivalries and controversies more directly than upon any other considerations. While literate Dutchmen hereabouts will understand, it may be that the history of the fight for freedom of Holland and the other provinces is not familiar to persons of other national backgrounds. Suffice it to say that the historical memory of the Spanish Duke of Alba in the Netherlands is at least as keen as that of the English Lord Protector, Cromwell, in the counties of old Ireland today.

The Annual Legislature

The political standoff brought about in the state government by recent elections and the steady increase in the burden of work upon the legislature at Madison has brought about a significant modification of the traditional pattern of legislative deliberations during a six or seven month period out of each biennial term for which the lawmakers are elected.

Yet as a matter of law, the biennial system of legislative sessions continues. The state constitution provides that the legislature shall convene in each January of the odd-numbered years, with such a duration of its deliberations as it deems necessary. In recent times the legislature of our state has accommodated that rule to the practical realities through the device of recessing from time to time. Yet the result is that in total session days the legislature sits far longer than it did in earlier times, and there is nothing to show that the deliberations won't be even more time-consuming in future years.

All of which is not unique. Other states have contemplated changing needs and fashions in legislative mechanics and some of them have accommodated themselves to them. Thus the South Dakota legislature convened recently in its first annual session, after having met biennially since the founding of the state. It thus became the 19th state to adopt the annual meeting rule.

This trend for annual deliberation has become pronounced only during the last 20 years. Before World War II only four states of the country had annual legislative meetings, and they included several of the larger states of the country.

With the bifurcated character of this state's technically biennial session now accepted by the politicians and their constituents (the current Wisconsin legislature has already sat in three separate periods and will return for yet another in April) it is probably only a matter of time until Wisconsin considers an amendment to call for annual sessions on a regular basis.

Some public affairs critics have said that the problem of effective budgeting for the huge public service programs of today could be handled more satisfactorily on an annual basis. There are skeptics. It is fair to note, who fear that if the legislators meet more frequently they will be the more inclined to yield to the spending pressure groups which are the most aggressive of the outside influences upon the law-making process.

Annual meetings, if they are of lesser duration, might be more convenient for some members who now complain about the impositions upon their professional or business careers. Yet it is conceivable that the change may also force out other useful men now in legislative service. There will be other considerations on both sides of the question. It is time now for thoughtful citizens and state political leaders to be pondering them, for it is quite clear that the relatively short legislative session at two year intervals has become a footnote to the history of a simpler society.

Looking Backward

Niagara Ship Canal Proposed

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Feb. 25, 1864.

At the Chicago Canal Convention, held last June, there were quite a large number of delegates from Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland and Northern New York, who, although unable to see any commercial or military merits in the proposed Chicago sewer, expressed themselves quite favorably inclined toward the construction of a ship canal around the Falls of Niagara.

The propriety of affording national aid at present to any such enterprise admits of grave doubts, particularly as there is no end to the number of them that would demand assistance should any one succeed.

If, however, the Government is to go into the canal business, it can do no better than to enlarge the Eastern outlets to the vast commerce of the West. The enlargement of the New York canals and the construction of a ship canal around Niagara would accomplish this object and would be worth to the nation many fold the expense that would be incurred.

The only objections we have seen urged against the latter is that its success would injure the interests of the State of New York and would cause a division of Western commerce into foreign ports.

If, however, it should appear that the Niagara Canal can be constructed at a reasonable cost and will actually accomplish what its advocates claim for it, and if any canal is to receive national aid, we do not believe that the local interests of New York will be allowed to prevent it.

Foreign Policy Views of British Labor Leader Important to U. S.

BY MAX FREEDMAN

Mr. Harold Wilson, leader of the British Labor Party, has given first priority to foreign affairs in his brief visit to Washington. He has correctly understood that President Johnson and the other American officials are primarily concerned with learning his views on the major problems that now trouble the world.

Freedman

This anxiety to learn his opinions is in itself a most unusual tribute to an opposition leader who has never served as foreign secretary.

In part this tribute is a respect for power. The Labor Party continues to hold its commanding lead over the Conservatives. Under the British system the date of the election must be fixed by the prime minister but it is to be held this year. Officials in Washington know that the political tides in Britain are still running strongly in Mr. Wilson's favor, and they naturally want to know, if the prospect of ultimate power has produced any change in his philosophy.

But this tribute is also being paid to Mr. Wilson's personal eminence as a spokesman on foreign policy. Since the Conservatives made Sir Alec Douglas-Home their party leader and prime minister, they have been trying to push foreign affairs into the center of the political debate to give him the chance to display his expert knowledge. This strategy has not been a great success. Mr. Wilson has discussed the most complicated problems in foreign policy with an authority that has won public confidence. Perhaps this will change once the election campaign begins, but at the moment he need not fear a personal encounter with any Conservative leader on any world problem.

It must be emphasized that President Johnson is being scrupulously neutral in his attitude to British politics. A few days ago two members of Mr. Wilson's "shadow cabinet" were in Washington. They will be members of the Labor government if one is formed after the election. Officials of the administration saw them, and profited from the discussions. But President Johnson wisely declined to meet them. He thought the false impression might spread among the British people that he ran toward the doors, then turned back to aid their injured colleagues.

The United States Senate that day confirmed President Eisenhower's appointment of Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.

A history club was formed by the St. Mary eighth grade, room 13, at Kaukauna. Activities were centered around the World War I period and students were planning to assemble posters, songs, firearms and other items from those years. Working on a bulletin board project were Judy Casey, chairman, Donald Weyers, Elaine Biese, Leroy Massey, Lyle Hartjes, Carol Wollersheim and Doris DeBruin. Lynn Kallath, Seymour, won first place in the Future Farmer Association's public speaking contest at Hortonville.

he was leaning towards the Labor Party if he saw two prominent Labor Members of Parliament in addition to his conference with Mr. Wilson. He deserves praise for this caution.

One of Mr. Wilson's achievements in the last few months has been to open a new relationship with German Socialists. As a result it has become possible for Mr. Wilson to discuss German problems in relation to European trade and European security with a certain relaxed independence never available to Mr. Gaitskill as leader of the Labor Party. Mr. Wilson took the initiative in arranging this new relationship and the primary credit belongs to him.

But the European situation is changing swiftly without waiting for the British elections. In coming weeks Mr. Wilson will have to declare himself on a number of new issues, some of which have just been raised in a memorable speech by Jean Monnet of France at Bad Godesberg. For example, Jean Monnet said Europe must form a partnership with the United States, with Europeans progressively assuming equal responsibilities. The first stage in this transformation of Atlantic relations will come with the "Kennedy round" of Tariff negotiations. Success in these negotiations will enable both Europe and the United States to develop their commercial policies by mutual consent.

This declaration has been welcomed in the State Department and the White House. But where does it leave Mr. Wilson? Like all Englishmen, he believes in the expansion of trade, and so he will support the "Kennedy round." But he is also a determined advocate of national economic planning, and he has insisted on complete independence for British foreign policy even if Britain one day should join the Common Market. This is a rather sounded note from the one founded by Jean Monnet and American spokesmen. What is he prepared to do, if he becomes responsible for British policy, to bring about a reconciliation of views?

In Britain today a critical debate is proceeding on nuclear policy. Once again Jean Monnet has given the lead to European statesmen if they want to cooperate with the United States. He has emphasized that the Atlantic partnership must cover nuclear arms and avoid the dangers inherent in national nuclear forces. He said the multilateral nuclear force sponsored by the United States can be a "transitional solution and fill a dangerous void."

Monnet saw the mixed force as the beginning of a collective organization. He predicted that Europe one day will create a common authority capable of administering and controlling nuclear weapons. That will produce a fundamental change in the situation. He said it would then be possible to associate a common European force with an American force in a multilateral organization.

Mr. Wilson is doubtful about the mixed force though he strongly favors some kind of nuclear cooperation. His detailed explanation on this critical point will be awaited with interest by President Johnson in coming weeks.

Wisconsin Report

Installment Payment Of Property Tax May Be Considered Next

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Recent state tax policy enactments have mixed anesthesia with the revenue search, so that there has been less response from the reluctantly taxpayer to the growth of state government expenditures and the tax liability accompanying.

Wyngaard

Through wage and salary check withholding, the state has been enabled to push its income tax rates to higher levels than anyone a decade ago would have thought any legislature would dare.

At the same time it has tapped the state taxpaying community for handsome additional sums in relatively painless sales taxation, something which candidates for public office the day before yesterday, as it seems, were solemnly declaring would never come here.

But there has been one conspicuous exception to this solicitude of the statehouse politicians for the sensibilities of their constituents. Property tax time passed a few weeks ago, and in hundreds of thousands of Wisconsin households it was one of the principal financial crises of the year. Other principal tax burdens of the typical Wisconsin family have been softened through one device or another. The property tax remains as a looming menace in the annual budgets of average men.

IMPROVEMENT

Prof. Clara Perniman of the University of Wisconsin faculty whose specialty has been taxation recently remarked with mild surprise about this seeming oversight of the politicians. In an address to municipal officials of Minnesota, she proposed a system of installment payments for the property taxes as a means of relieving their impact from individual families. She suggested quarterly payments, as a minimum improvement. There will be many others, living on the time payment system which is now evidently the incorrigible habit of Americans, who would prefer the monthly payment system if they had an option. As Prof. Perniman noted, there are in fact thousands of occupants of mortgaged homes which are now in fact making monthly payments, but to the bank or savings and loan company as a part of their amortization arrangements. The system has the result of assessing a premium for the gain of the lender, rather than for the benefit of the borrowers or the municipality.

The state government adopted the income tax withholding system two years ago because the politicians feared a revolt among the voters if the rates were raised without such a subterfuge. It seems strange, in retrospect, that nobody remembered that in thousands of middle class and working class households the property tax bill is higher and more difficult to pay than is the state income tax.

THE POLITICS

One of the gnawing worries of some of the principal public service pressure groups, and notably the professional school organizations, is the dependence of their budgets upon the property tax.

The worry is that the schools won't be able to extract the tax dollars they need because of the apparent hardship upon local property owners subject to local government levies. It is the more curious, therefore, that these usually ingenious forces have not taken their cue from the statehouse politicians who devised payroll withholding and the weekly income tax payment to cushion if not to disguise the exploding rise in the cost of the state budget.

There was a time when the professional economist and political scientist (as Prof. Perniman remembers) ascribed some virtue to tax laws that required taxation in a fashion that made government costs meaningful through the direct impact.

But that time has long since passed. That principle has been sacrificed to the exigencies of big government and an ever-increasing range of public service activity. The challenge to the politician today is to provide the enlarging scope of public benefits: constituents want, with the minimum reminders of the cost.

Strictly Personal

Actors of Two Types: Performer, Personality

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A woman I know met a celebrated actor in New York recently, and was surprised and disappointed in his personality. "He was like an empty vessel waiting to be filled with some liquid," she said. "The liquid being, of course, whatever role he is enacting at the time."

Harris

Actors (and actresses, too, of course) tend to come in only two shapes: the Performer and the Personality. He undoubtedly had met one of the Performers.

The difference between the two is quite readily seen by anyone who is personally acquainted with the theater: the Performer is nobody, and the Personality is nobody but himself. There are some actors who are always themselves, no matter which role they are playing. Their talent may be large, but their capacity for subordinating themselves is small: it is they themselves, rather than their impersonations, that dominate the audience. These people are Performers.

At the other end of the spectrum is the actor who can be anybody, and prefers to be. He himself has no "essence" or "aroma," and confesses that he feels empty when he is not impersonating a character. Peter Sellers, perhaps the finest character actor of our time, has admitted in an interview that "the real Sellers" eludes him. It is only when he is somebody else that he feels "most myself." A great many persons enter the theater professionally not to exhibit themselves, as is commonly supposed, but rather to escape from the nothingness of themselves into somebody else. Acting becomes "reality" to them, and reality is but a shadow.

We can see some evidence of this in the case of stutters. It is generally known that stutters forget their affliction when they are playing a part, either talking or singing. As long as the words belong to someone else, as long as they are not themselves, they can speak as swiftly as anyone. Several famous comedians stutter badly in private life who never show a trace of it in public performance.

The failure to distinguish between the Personality and the Performer has cost even experienced producers millions of dollars in Broadway flops. Needing a "big name" for a starring role, a producer will hire a famous Personality when the role calls for a Performer — and then it turns out that the Personality cannot subdue himself to the part, cannot make it believable, because he is too much himself.

The woman had no right to be disappointed in the actor. What is given to the public is what we would like to be; what is left over is what we have to be. For any artist, the best goes into his work.

Tax Cut Includes New Tax Savings

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Of course you know that the new 1964 tax law is cutting your income tax rates — but that's just part of the story. The law also includes important new tax breaks and significant "loophole-closing" provisions.

To millions of you, the new tax breaks will mean savings far more valuable than the so-called loophole closings will be even when cutting down your savings from the rate reductions.

Porter

Here's a brief summary of the new law to guide you to a profitable understanding of what's ahead for you.

First, individual tax rates are reduced in every bracket from the lowest to the highest in two steps. The lowest tax rate is falling from 20 per cent in 1963 to 16 per cent this year to 14 per cent in 1965. The highest rate is falling from 91 per cent in 1963 to 77 per cent this year and to 70 per cent in 1965. Rates for corporations also are being reduced in two steps. For corporations with net income up through $25,000, the rate is dropping from 30 per cent in 1963 to 22 per cent in 1964 and 1965. For sions which will give you new tax breaks or limit or even wipe out existing tax privileges. Almost all of these changes apply to 1964 and will be reflected in your 1964 tax return which you will file in 1965.

As an indication of how these tax breaks can be even more important than the rate cuts, there is now a new "minimum" standard deduction in addition to the familiar 10 per cent standard deduction. This new minimum standard deduction actually will give about 1.5 million lower bracket families a 100 per cent federal income tax cut.

As another indication of the tax breaks in the new law, a 65-year or older person can now sell his house without paying any capital gain on the profit—up to a certain limit. This can benefit the 65-year or older seller of a house far more than the tax rate cuts.

New Provisions

On the other side, there are the new provisions which limit or take away tax breaks we have had in the past.

For instance, if you have been itemizing your personal deductions instead of taking the standard deduction, you know that you have been entitled to deduct your casualty losses which weren't reimbursed by insurance. If, say, you paid $50 to repair an auto fender damaged in a collision, you could deduct the $50. You won't be able to take this deduction any longer as a result of the 1964 tax law.

The 1964 tax law is creating an entirely new tax benefit in the form of income averaging. This break will offer tax advantages to anyone with a sharply fluctuating income—and it won't matter whether your income is from salaries, commissions, sale of merchandise, dividends, interest or even short-term capital gains.

Tax Breaks

It is giving exceedingly valuable tax breaks to persons 65 years of age or older—via a new retirement credit provision and a liberalization of the medical expense deduction, in addition to the clauses on selling of homes and the new minimum standard deduction. There are changes covering life pay, employee group life insurance, child care expenses, the dividend exclusion and credit, employee moving expenses. All mentioned in this report and others will be explained in this series.

One important warning before you concentrate on the 1964 law. When you fill out your 1963 return, completely forget this law. It does not apply to your 1963 return which you are to file by April 15.

The 1964 law applies to your business and personal affairs in 1964 and will be reflected in this year's tax return which you will file by April 15, 1965.

ONE OF YOU WILL BETRAY ME

Thirteen guests gathered at the table for that portentous Last Supper. Midway through the meal, Jesus said to the Twelve:

"Amen I say to you, one of you will betray me."
 "And being very much saddened they began each to say, 'Is it I, Lord?' But He answered and said, 'He who dips his hand with me in the dish, he will betray Me. The Son of Man indeed goes His way, as it is written of Him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed!' It were better for that man if he had not been born."
 "And Judas who betrayed Him answered and said, 'Is it I, Rabbi?' He said to him, 'Thou hast said it.'"

Faces Big Tests

Johnson Still Feeling Way After 100 Days

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 100 days in office President Johnson is still feeling his way in foreign affairs, with Congress, with the press, and in his own reaction to criticism.

He reached his 100th day Saturday but, while he searches, his standing in the public opinion polls is very high.

Johnson, an old Congress hand with 24 years in House and Senate, has seemed most sure with the men in the Capitol, and most successful. He still faces big tests there.

He got off on the right foot by promising economy and offering a budget lower than President Kennedy's of last year. This pleased Congress, which rammed through a tax-cut bill for him, largest in history, and a foreign aid bill not too skimpy to live with.

A major test of Johnson's leadership with Congress will be in trying to get through intact the civil rights bill he asked.

He also called for a program of medical care for the aged and a war on poverty.

He will be a miracle man if he can get approval of medical care and the war on poverty will be long drawn-out.

Foreign problems multiplied for Johnson faster than for Kennedy in the same length of time: Riots in Panama, trouble with Fidel Castro in Cuba, an ugly, deteriorating war in South Viet Nam.

Johnson has shown extraordinary sensitivity to criticism, although it got under other presidents' skins too. But Johnson reacted to it early in such an exaggerated way that this got him more criticism.

Several weeks ago he was so incensed at his critics—of whom Republicans were the severest—that he bracketed them with "our other enemies." This could be interpreted as meaning that criticizing him was disloyal.

After he got a fresh ground over for that, he shifted ground and last week was calling for patient understanding of his critics.

Press Conferences

Ever since taking office Johnson seems to have been seeking a way to handle the press. He would talk with newsmen individually or call a sudden news conference with the few reporters who happened to be in the White House at the time.

But for 100 days he avoided the kind of live, televised news conference which Kennedy, with his ease and quickness, made a delight even if it wasn't always newsworthy.

For a month, until Saturday, Johnson did not meet with the press at all. The questions intensified: Why? On Saturday he finally had a live, televised meeting with a packed array of reporters, a meeting announced a day ahead of time.

He did not say much. He talked mostly in generalities. And he made it clear this kind of conference was not going to be the rule. He said he would hold one occasionally but meanwhile would talk to reporters in other ways.

Sam Goldwyn Ready to Try Hand at TV

Movie King, 80, Plans to Produce Films for Field

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Samuel Goldwyn, the foxy giant of the movie world, has decided at the age of 80 to enter the television field.

Goldwyn announced this week that he has formed an organization to distribute his movies to television. He also said that he planned to go into production of films especially for television, still reserving the possibility he may make another feature film if he finds a project that excites him.

"For years people have been asking me when they can see pictures like 'Best Years of Our Lives' and 'Pride of the Yankees' on television," he said. "I have always said I would not go into television until the time was right. Now I think the time is right."

No Deals Yet
"I have not yet made any deals with anyone. I will make the best deals I can. But I'm not giving up the theater business."

Concerning production of new films for television, Goldwyn remarked:

"I'm a ham. I'm an egotist. I have spent 50 years in this business building a name that meant quality, and I intend to protect it. I am not going into television to make a fast buck. Quantity is not important to me; I am seeking quality."

Good Writers
Goldwyn said: "The first thing I will do is hire two or three good writers to work on scripts. Writing has always been the important thing with me."

"I will go slowly. I've always done that. I usually made one or two pictures a year, sometimes none. Once I had Gary Cooper on salary for a whole year at $10,000 a week but I had no picture for him. Then one night my wife and I saw a newsreel of Lou Gehrig's farewell at the Coliseum (Yankee Stadium) in New York. We both cried."

"I told my wife, 'There's my next story for Gary Cooper. But there is no story,' she said. I told her, 'I've got a third act, and that's what matters.'"

"The first act is not so important to me; it's the finish that has always mattered. I like to know where I'm going."

Loveland's Cardboard Hearts Are Stolen
LOVELAND, Colo. (AP)—Twenty-eight hearts have been stolen in Loveland, which calls itself America's Sweetheart City.

Manager Mike Deuth of the Chamber of Commerce said 72 big cardboard hearts were posted on light poles prior to Valentine's Day and that only 44 are still up.

A few of the red hearts, with words of affection in poetry, have been found in college fraternity houses.

Paraplegics Find Hope on Scott Show

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 2)—Despite the fact that East Side/West Side deals with the plight of paraplegics, it is a hopeful and sometimes astounding episode. George C. Scott, working with the "Westside Wheelers" basketball team, becomes involved with Alex Viespi, a paraplegic convinced he will walk again as the result of experiments in bio-electronics conducted by Vincent Gardenia.

6-7-7:30 (Channel 11)—The Outer Limits has another imaginative plot which is great fun for fans of the genre. Simon Oakland, under the monster-make-up-of-the-week, is an Egyptian who stands out passes to an outer space ride in an amusement park. What the recipients don't know is that the ride has been converted by Oakland into a real space ship and there they are swooshing through space towards his planet.

6-34:30 (Channel 4-5)—Monday Night at the Movies is show produced, like the movie, by Ivan Tors. It's "Underwater Warrior," a 1958 release starring Dan Daily, James Gregory and Ross Martin.

7:30-8 (Channel 2)—The Lucy Show chronicles an argument between Lucille Ball and Vivian Vance over breakfast fare and hair dye and what happens when the new boarders Lucy takes in turn out to be a singer and her drummer son, Roberta Sherwood and her son Robert Lanning.

7:30-9 (Channel 13)—Wagon Train has a whodunit that should hold your interest up to the arbitrary solution. Seven people join the train from a town where there were five strangers in two weeks. Immediately Charlie's crow is strangled, then in succession a group of noisy passengers. Obviously suspicion falls on the seven people. (Color)

8-8:30 (Channel 2)—The Danny Thomas Show has a very funny episode thanks to Hans Conried as Uncle Tonoose, including a wild scene in a shoe store where Tonoose has a job as Executive in Charge of Inventory Displacement (he works in the stock room).

8:30-9 (Channel 2)—Demon detective Don Knotts is on the trail again as the Mayberry department store has a rash of shoplifting, on The Andy Griffith Show.

8:30-9 (Channel 4-5)—Hollywood and the Stars acknowledges production of a movie you may have heard about—"The Night of the Iguana." When John Huston is talking about his philosophy of directing, and when the cameras focus on some of the incredible detail involved in moving a large production company to a remote area of Mexico, the show is very absorbing.

9-10 (Channel 11)—The subject matter of Breaking Point, heartbreaking though it is, must fall in the realm of sensationalism when it's brought to the home screens. Lori Martin plays a 14-year-old victim of a rapist

Fred Waring Brings His Pennsylvanians in their new 1964 stage show "The Magic of Music" to Appleton Saturday. The program is the last production on the Appleton Gallery of Arts' season of Variety Theatre. Tickets for the show are available at Newman's Store. Curtain time at Appleton High School Saturday is 8:15 p.m.

Wisconsin's Health

Arthritis Greatest Crippling Disease in United States

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M.D., State Health Officer
Our greatest crippling and disabling disease...

This is an apt description of one of the oldest ailments known to man—arthritis. Common among the Egyptians, Greeks, and Romans, arthritis now tortures, cripples, or deforms more than 11 million people in the U. S. and an estimated 276,000 victims in Wisconsin.

Primarily a disorder of the joints, arthritis exists in at least 17 different forms, the most common of which is rheumatoid arthritis.

This ailment is a progressive disorder which may affect the whole body structure and may last an entire lifetime. It usually involves pain and swelling around the joints, such as fingers and toes, wrists or ankles. Sometimes, though, it's also accompanied by fever, loss of weight and appetite, and aching muscles.

The exact cause of the disorder is not yet known. But contributing factors may include fatigue, emotional stress and strain, injury, shock, and exposure to dampness and cold.

Most cases, however, may be arrested at any stage. Sometimes the aches and pains stop abruptly and never return. And with early diagnosis and treatment, the pain can be relieved and crippling effects prevented—in as many as 70 per cent of all cases.

This is why it's a good idea for anyone having arthritis to check who is so affected by her experience that she hides under a bed and refuses to look at herself in the mirror.

To Your Good Health

Child's Improper Diet
Can Lead to Rickets

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son-in-law drinks a 16-ounce bottle of cola before every meal, and one at bedtime. He says he isn't hungry and that food doesn't taste good. What I'm concerned about is my two-year-old grandson who sees his father with the cola. He is given some, too—and then, doesn't want to eat, either.

I say there are enough calories in the cola drinks to fill them up so they can't eat. The child is thin and my daughter worries about him. She doesn't give the child this cola drink, but the father does and explains that "I can't bear to hear him cry."

They took the baby to a doctor and the problem was diagnosed as rickets. So I said, "It's about time you get some tonic in that child and throw the cola out." What advice would you give?

C.V.W.

About the same advice that you have given in vain, I guess!

Any of these soft drinks are sweet. That means they contain sugar. Sugar has a lot of calories. But it contains nothing which is used to build the body. It provides only "fuel." (Or will be converted into fat.)

I have nothing against soft drinks, but before meals, isn't the time to drink them, any more than you would give a child ice cream and cake before dinner and then expect him to eat.

If your son-in-law wants to continue drinking cola, I don't suppose there is anything you can do about it. He's old enough to decide what he wants to do, right or wrong.

Teaching Baby

But teaching the baby to do so is something else. Your grandson has some rights. He is entitled to be taught to eat properly. Instead he is being taught the wrong things about eating.

That's right — taught. Because babies are natural copycats. That's the way they learn. And this poor infant already has been taught to satisfy his appetite with sweet stuff so he doesn't want the foods that provide protein, minerals and vitamins which he needs to build strong bones, strong muscles, and a healthy body generally.

This son-in-law should make it a point to eat his own dinner, and never let the baby see him drink another drop of soft drink before a meal. In fact, if he never lets the child see him drink any — let alone give him any — it will be better because this little fellow has some unlearning to do.

I cannot understand how any father, in this age, can bear a doctor say "rickets" without shuddering and deciding to do something at once to correct the child's diet.

He can go out in the kitchen after the baby is in bed and drink pop until he bleats. But he owes his son a proper diet. And that means setting a good example.

Vitamin Shots

Dear Dr. Molner: Can one take too many Vitamin B12 shots? Would two a week, for five years, be harmful? If I have to take them for the rest of my life, will it be O.K. someone told me you could take too many.

M.H.D.

B12 can be taken all your life without harm, because any excess is eliminated by your system. (This is not true of all vitamins.)

B12 is used for various things. For pernicious anemia, it changes certain disability into normal life. It is helpful in certain types of neuritis, etc.

It is also used for a lot of other ailments and complaints in which it may (or may not) do any good but also does no harm.

NOTE TO E.R.S.: Polyps of the colon, unlike those in some other parts of the body, have a suspiciously high percentage of becoming malignant. Therefore, if you don't have this one removed, at least it should be watched carefully by your physician.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Discussion Planned
On College Chances
For Federal Grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said a meeting will be held at Stevens Point State College March 7 to advise public and private colleges of federal grant opportunities.

The senator also announced that the federal government had approved a $169,200 grant to the Oconto County and City Hospital at Oconto for a 30-bed nursing home and had approved job training programs in La Crosse and Burnett counties.

Proxmire said he and Eugene R. McPhee, director of the state colleges, had arranged for representatives of six government agencies most responsible for federal research to meet with representatives of colleges at Stevens Point. He added that the University of Wisconsin had received millions from the federal government for research, but the state colleges got only about $100,000 a year.

The job training program will provide for 20 persons to be trained in La Crosse as stenographers, with federal expenditures of $9,290 for education and $12,900 for subsistence. In Burnett County, 36 persons will be trained as machine operators, with federal expenditures of $16,898 for education and $23,040 for subsistence. Each course will last 16 weeks.

Johnson Avoids Dangers on 1st Live Conference

President's Answers Were Clear, Tactful And Diplomatic

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Johnson handled himself just right in his press conference the other day — the first to be shared simultaneously with a television and radio audience.

There are theatrical temptations and political dangers in appearing before a mass of listeners over nationwide networks. Mr. Johnson didn't try to be a Bob Hope or a Jack Benny or to use the applause-getting methods of any other TV star, but presented himself simply as an earnest, dignified president of the United States. In choosing not to be a showman, he may not have won the "beats" — minded but he probably earned the respect of mature citizens. The sharp and witty innuendoes of political combat, moreover, were omitted, as this device sometimes alienates as many as it attracts.

The president's answers were clearly expressed, and he was both tactful and diplomatic in avoiding the pitfalls of extemporaneous comment which have embarrassed some of his predecessors.

Changed Man
Mr. Johnson appeared a changed man from the days when he was majority leader of the Senate or vice president. He showed the weight of his responsibility. He was calm and restrained and was exceedingly careful to choose every word he spoke.

Take, for instance, the president's way of dealing with the Panama problem. He said he was willing to "discuss anything, any time, anywhere, and to make adjustments" when diplomatic relations with the Panamanian government have been restored, but he made it clear that this country would not make any "pre-communiments." This plainly means that the decision whether to agree to a revision of the existing treaty with Panama will not be made before but after the whole subject has been explored in conferences between the two governments.

Chose Words
On domestic politics, Mr. Johnson was equally restrained and chose his words carefully. He preferred, for example, not to involve himself in the techniques of a court trial and said merely that he wouldn't comment on the "Bobby Baker Case" until the hearings have been concluded and the Senate committee has made its report. Beseemed for an educated guess as to whom his Republican opponent in the presidential race might be. Mr. Johnson quietly replied that he himself hadn't been nominated as yet and that these were matters for the conventions to decide.

But when asked about the "public accommodations" section of the "civil rights" bill, Mr. Johnson didn't hesitate to state unequivocally that he stands behind the bill as it passed the House. He denied that he had promised to compromise on this or any other section. But, of course, this doesn't preclude the Senate and House conferees from making compromises, while assuming that the President will have to go along any way if it's the best thing that can be done to assure final passage.

Johnson Seated
Mr. Johnson was seated during the press conference—a return to the custom of the presidents of two or more decades ago. He seemed at ease and didn't give the impression that he was delivering a speech but that he was merely conducting a conversation with the correspondents who were interrogating him.

Asked about his first 100 days in the presidency which last Saturday completed, Mr. Johnson said he had as vice president sat in on 35 meetings of the National Security Council, including the Cuban missile crisis, and that he had been reasonably close to the operations of the presidential office in the last 30 years, but that he had derived many different impressions now from "this awesome responsibility."

Unquestionably Mr. Johnson's long familiarity with the governmental scene is one reason for his adroitness in answering questions as well as his respectful attitude toward those who disagree with him or ask questions with embarrassing implications.

Cautious Answers
Whether the topic was the political or military strategy to be pursued in the Viet Nam muddle or the requested amplification of his recent remarks in Los Angeles in which he referred to the "dangerous game" being played by the "aggressors" in southeast Asia, the president was as cautious as any career diplomat in his selection of words.

Mr. Johnson didn't care to say now whether he will engage in a TV debate with the opposing presidential candidate next summer. He said merely that he will "cross that bridge" when he comes to it. This leaves him with plenty of opportunity to decide either way depending on the circumstances existing at campaign time.

Lyndon Johnson has learned in his 30 years of experience on Capitol Hill that it's never wise in politics to make a superfluous statement or to issue one long before it is actually necessary. On the whole, Mr. Johnson's demeanor at his TV conference with the press, if continued, will give an image to the public of a hard-working, cautious and sincere man whose mistakes, when they occur, will not seem to be due so much to a lack of conscientious effort as to the turns of fate in a topsy-turvy world.

Scranton to Steer Clear of GOP Contests

"deep thought" you promised General Eisenhower that you would give in the matter of seeking the Republican nomination?

A. I haven't changed my opinion any, so far. I am still thinking. I don't deny that I may well for some time. I still feel very strongly that I don't want to do this. I am not a candidate, I don't want to be a candidate, and I don't think it is necessary. I think you have got plenty of good ones.

Has No Preference
Q. Do you have a preference among these others?

A. I don't have a preference at the moment. I assume that I will by the time I get to the convention.

Q. Senator Goldwater has said you ought to be seeking the vice presidential nomination. Would you accept it if it were offered?

A. I am not interested in any national office.

Q. Does that mean that you would not accept the vice presidential nomination if it were offered to you?

A. I think it means that I would not accept it if offered to me.

Q. How about presidential nomination?

A. I said that I would accept that if there was a sincere and honest draft, but I don't expect there will be one. That doesn't happen in modern political times.

Tax Reduction
Q. With the tax reduction now law, do you believe that federal spending should be reduced?

A. Yes, I do. I think if we have this shot in the arm approach in a good economic period that we can lead ourselves into inflation if we don't start cutting expenditures.

Q. Do you believe that compromises are going to be necessary or desirable to get Senate approval of the House civil rights bill?

A. As far as I am concerned, it is not necessary or desirable.

Q. What is your position on the use of troops to enforce federal court orders in civil rights disturbances?

A. I have said over and over again that I have been President Kennedy or had I been President Eisenhower in the cases involved and with my knowledge of the facts involved, I would have done the same thing.

Let's be honest about it, it would entirely depend upon the situation at the time and what the conditions are and what the necessity for it is.

Federal Health Care
Q. How would you finance a federal program of health care for the elderly?

A. First of all, I would try to implement the Kerr-Mills Act in the states as much as possible. We have been doing an outstanding job in this in Pennsylvania and we are No. 1 in the nation. Secondly, I don't think this is enough to take care of the total need. Therefore, federal legislation is a necessity. Thirdly, I think we are fooling the public if we say the programs can be financed under the Social Security provisions. In my opinion, in order to do this job, you will have to do it under the regular taxing system. I may add that I think it is fairer.

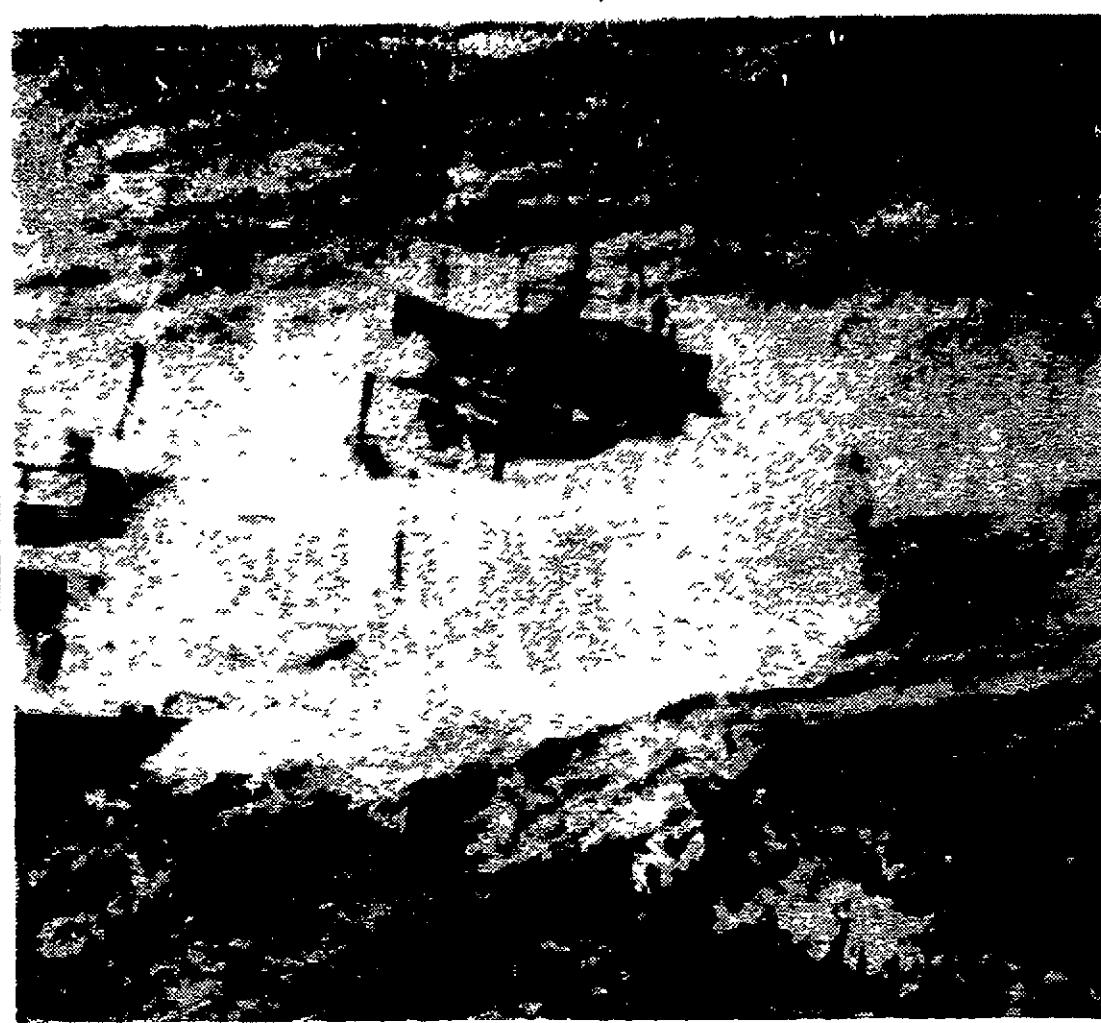

Q. You do oppose federal aid to elementary and high schools?

A. I oppose it on this basis—I think we can take care of it on a state and local level. If you don't have to have too many governmental units involved in a given project, the better off you are.

Bonn Government Bans Canned Kangaroo
BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Parliament banned the sale of canned kangaroo meat Friday but it approved continued sale of canned kangaroo tail soup—a favorite delicacy here.

The bill said some kangaroo meat had been found to contain salmonella, a microscopic growth, and infections had been caused by it.

by George R. Baber, to the scene.

The 81 passengers were flying toward a gay Sunday at Nevada's gambling casinos, theaters, bars and restaurants—only two miles from the airport at the south end of Lake Tahoe.

15 Turned Away
Fifteen other pleasure seekers—who had purchased $15.75 tickets for the 15-mile flight from San Jose—were unable to get seats. They were taken 50 miles to Oakland to board another plane—but were turned back with a report the weather was bad.

Eighteen of the 81 passengers were employees of two discount houses, the Monte Mart in Salinas and the Monte Mart in Monterey.

Expressing how completely the plane vanished, and with no clues, Paradise Airlines President Herman Jones, 32, said: "There have been no reports, no sightings, no nothing."

Other Disasters
Wednesday, an Eastern Airlines jet crashed into New Orleans' Lake Pontchartrain, killing all 58 aboard. And Saturday, 83 were killed when a British Eagle Airways Turboprop crashed into an Austrian mountain.

Norris was chief pilot for Paradise. He had flown Comets or similar planes about 15,000 hours in 16 years. He was familiar with the area in which his plane vanished.

Norris was a bachelor. He lived in Alameda.

The stewardess, Wynette McDowell, 29, had four children. Her home is in Pittsburg, Calif.

The other crew members: Donald Watson, 28, South San Francisco, first officer, and Jake Worthley, 33, Fremont, Calif.

The airline released the names of 63 passengers who boarded at San Jose, but said the names of 18 who boarded at Salinas had been mailed and would not be available until the list is received today.

Says Living Tots Thrown Into Flames

FRANKFURT, Germany

(AP) — Children were thrown alive into burning piles of rubbish near the Auschwitz concentration camp's gas ovens, an inmate of the camp testified today.

Dr. Ella Lingens, 55, an official of the Austrian Social Ministry, was an inmate physician in the women's section of the camp.

"I first couldn't believe the SS guards would burn children alive," she told the court.

Twenty-two former camp officials, now defendants in Germany's biggest war crimes trial, listened attentively as the tall, gray-haired Viennese woman testified.

Dr. Lingens was sent to Auschwitz for helping Jews escape abroad.

She said she survived because she was a physician and an Aryan. German Aryans were treated better than Jews, Poles and Russians, Mrs. Lingens said.

Erwin F. Tellock, Former Greenville Town Chairman, Dies

Erwin F. Tellock, 67, a former Town of Greenville board member and town chairman, died Sunday in Hortonville following a heart attack.

The rural Appleton man also was a charter member of the Hortonville rural fire committee and was a charter member. He was secretary for the first board of Badger Breeders, Shawano.

Survivors are the widow, one son, two grandchildren, one sister and three brothers.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Greenville, with burial in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at Borchart and Moder Funeral Home, Hortonville, from 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Senior Sinatra May Be Recalled to Stand

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys say they hope to recall singer Frank Sinatra Sr. today to testify in the trial of three men accused of kidnapping his 20-year-old son.

Observers said Sunday that by attempting to recall the elder Sinatra to the stand, the defense would be testing an assertion by the prosecution that the veteran entertainer is available as a witness.

News reports say Sinatra is in Japan and plans to remain there until he completes negotiations for a film.

Defense attorneys said that if Sinatra is not available they will call defendant Joseph Clyde Amster, 23, and ask him of his reported attempts to block the alleged kidnapping.

The other two defendants are Barry Keenan, also 23, and John Irwin, 42.

Demonstrations in Gabon Reported

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — Antigovernment demonstrations have broken out in neighboring Gabon, according to reports reaching here today.

In a radio broadcast heard here, Gabon President Leon Mba said police and gendarmes intervened in demonstrations in Libreville, the capital. A series of arrests was reported, but no casualties were mentioned. Mba called for calm.

No other details were immediately available. Telephone circuits to Libreville were reserved for official calls.

Mba was turned out by a coup d'etat Feb. 18 but intervention by French troops restored him to power before the provisional government could take control.

Erhard, Brandt Will Confer on Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt will meet this week to try to patch up a dispute over how to deal with the East Germans about crossing the Berlin wall.

The Western Allies believe only the Communists can gain from the quarrel which developed after the collapse last week of negotiations for Easter visits by West Berliners to relatives in the Communist sector.

Disarmed by Communist po-hard refused to allow an Easter wano; and "in State 47 and 54 agreement on the same terms. In Menominee, Outagamie and Shawano Counties

Brandt has demanded a new approach to the problem.

Market Index Pushed to Magic Figure on Friday

Averages Criticized as They Do Not Indicate General Market Picture

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The long-drawn-out flirtation of the Dow-Jones industrial averages with the 800 mark that has fascinated stock market followers finally came to the moment of truth. After several times pushing the popular index that high earlier in the day only to see it fall back, the bulls finally scored a closing figure of 800.14 Friday.

The psychological victory is due to the round figure's capture of public fancy.

But many critics think this and other popular averages aren't the best indicators of the market as a whole. They mirror only blue chips, even if some of these may have become a bit pallid in recent years or months. The general market hasn't swung up as vigorously. Many stocks—perhaps some of yours—haven't moved at all or have fallen back.

Reasons for the long upturn in the popular indexes are closely tied to psychology as well as to the dollar and cents matters of earnings and dividends.

The federal tax cut has bolstered confidence in an upcoming surge in the business of many of the corporations whose stocks appear in the averages. Stock traders long may have discounted this factor, but the general public tended to respond only as the bill took final form.

It may well carry this confidence into actual stock buying when the benefits of the tax cut are realized in pay checks.

Both the public and the big institutional buyers apparently have concentrated for several months on blue chips and dealt more gingerly with less known or newer issues. It has been a general period of caution in business and finance.

Average Record
Even so, not one of the 30 stocks on the Dow Jones industrial index was at its record high Friday. But five were near their peaks set earlier this year.

Three others set their highs in 1963, seven in 1961 and four in 1960. The other 16 on the list made theirs before 1960.

Stocks on the list setting their record highs in February 1964 are A.T.&T., International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Jersey Standard Oil, and Texaco. The three at their peaks in 1963 are Chrysler, General Motors, and California Standard Oil. Those dating back before the 1960s are Alcoa, American Can, Anacoda, Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear, International Paper, Swift, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, and U.S. Steel.

Wisconsin Tabbed as One of Key Future Dairy Industry Centers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the future of the nation's dairy industry centers in Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

This projection is based on a study of trends and changes in the industry since 1950. These states are close to large population centers.

They produced about 30 percent of the nation's milk in 1962.

Motor Transport Industry Won't Commit Self on Highway Question

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The organized motor transport industry which usually is involved in an influential and aggressive way in public issues relating to highway development has removed itself from the current fight about an accelerated main line highway construction program.

The Wisconsin Motor Carriers Association has taken no position on the highway bonding referendum which will be submitted to the state voters in the April elections.

The non-committal attitude of the Association, otherwise an important force in state policy affairs, probably indicates there is a division in the industry on the question. The Association represents mostly the larger for-hire haulers. Some of the dump truckers and others interested in the materials transport business that presumably would gain from a big construction effort are backing the referendum proposition.

Institution Inspection

The reorganized legislative committee for visiting state institutions is considering a departure in procedure for inspection of some of the principal mental hygiene and other facilities of other states.

The committee, which has quietly kept an eye on state welfare facilities for the last decade and a half, as named Sen Chester Dempsey of Harland, one of the deans of the legislature in point of service, as chairman for the new term.

At a recent Madison planning session of the visiting committee it got some disturbing projections about population trends in the institutions for the training of delinquent boys and young men.

Sanger Powers of the correction division disclosed that the year end total of boys at two state institutions at Waupun and Platteville stood at more than 700, or considerably above budget estimates. He said the number at the end of the decade may very well rise to 1,200, which means that there will be a substantial need for additional space and facilities soon.

Meanwhile there has been a slight lull in the population intake of adult offenders in the corrections institutions, but the meaning of the experience is not yet clear. It may relate to a continuing policy of liberal release through parole.

Why Join a Union?

Why should a public employee in an executive or professional classification who has no special complaint about salary advancement join a union?

An executive of the state employment service answers the question in a current periodical of the Wisconsin State Employees Association and includes arguments such as working for better pension guarantees, better travel allowances, a shorter work week, and "smaller but still irritating items" such as free parking, facilities for coffee breaks and for food service.

The row over control of the Democratic party organization has disturbed many Democrats lately, but it has also had the effect of inspiring more activity and interest among party loyalists than anyone has observed in a long time.

The attendance at 10 district caucuses recently held to nominate candidates for national convention delegate probably attracted 4,000 persons, undoubtedly the largest

Several district caucuses drew a larger attendance than normally expected at an off-year state-wide convention.

Amendment

Recent trial balloons about an initiative and referendum amendment to the state constitution have fallen on the deaf ears of political leaders of the state.

The idea of legislation by popular initiative, involving listing of propositions on a ballot through petition and detouring the ordinary legislative process, was one of the favorites of liberal reformers in previous decades.

The last serious attempt in this state to enact an initiative and referendum clause was 50 years ago, after the 1914 legislature had approved it and submitted it to a popular vote. It was rejected decisively.

The overtures from state educational officials about building a state-wide educational television network have been virtually ignored by the legislature thus far. But these officials feel the issue will be considered more seriously in the next few years as enrollments in the state colleges and universities continue to explode. Some of them are now private saying that the enormous student loans projected—such as the $2,000 figure for Madison resident students of the U W at the end of the decade—can be accommodated only if television is used to dilute the manpower requirements for teaching.

New London Firemen Called to Two Fires

NEW LONDON—The volunteer fire department was called out to two small fires Saturday. At 10:52 a.m. there was a grass fire between the city dump and the fire house.

The second call was a car fire at 10 p.m. near Emanuel Lutheran Church. The front seat of the car was on fire.

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, March 2, the 62nd day of 1964. There are 304 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1836, Texas adopted a declaration of independence, and later in the month adopted a constitution.

On this date

In 1776, American Marines first engaged in battle when a force of 200 under Maj. Samuel Nicholas captured Fort Mifflin in the Bahamas.

In 1861, Dakota territory was organized.

In 1942, Gen. Henry "Hap" Arnold was named commander of the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II.

In 1949, the first non-stop around-the-world flight in history was completed by a U.S. B-50 bomber, "Lucky Lady Two," in the time of 94 hours and one minute.

Ten years ago ... The Soviet Union announced the dismissal of the doctor who had attended the late dictator Josef Stalin from the post of health minister.

Five years ago ... British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan rejected Russian Premier Khrushchev's offer of a non-aggression pact that would have liquidated U.S. air bases in Britain.

One year ago ... Fourteen civilians were sentenced to prison on terms in Madrid for rebellious acts against the Franco government.

Witness' Identification of Voice Leads to Conviction

A bandit held Mrs. Smith at gunpoint while robbing her in her own home. The robber wore a mask over his face so her own voice was not able to see, Mrs. Smith was not able to see what he looked like. However, she heard his voice and made a careful note of other physical characteristics such as his form, size, manner and walk.

Based upon the description given them, the police arrested several suspects. From this group Mrs. Smith identified Sam Sorry as the robber. She based her identification on the sound of his voice.

"I would know that voice anywhere," said Mrs. Smith. "You don't forget the sound of someone's voice who points a gun at you and says to give

The only requirement is that the witness have some basis for comparison of the accused's voice with the voice which she identifies as the accused.

In such cases where an accused is identified by a witness from having heard his voice, the value of such evidence is a question for the jury. The jury's verdict in this case was based upon valid evidence, and the Supreme Court refused to overturn it.

Sam lost the case. (Based upon a decision of the Nebraska Supreme Court.)
